Rising Over-Order Premiums Give Lift To Dairy Farmers

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has given an enormous lift to dairy farmers' fortunes in the Mid-Atlantic area with its decision, announced Aug. 10, to raise by $1.05 a hundredweight the minimum price that handlers must pay for milk processed for fluid use, according to industry officials.

The decision will boost farm income in Pennsylvania, of course. But the benefits also will ripple in several ways to producers in neighboring states.

The extra $1.05, in effect a kind of Class I differential tacked onto the monthly prices PMMB determines for its six marketing areas across the state, will be in effect from at least Sept. 1 through Feb. 28, 1989. The board will meet before the end of this period to decide whether or not to extend the differential, according to spokesman Dennis Curtin.

The action raises prices above the minimum levels set by the nationwide federal order system, by which PMMB typically sets its prices. In September, for instance, the PMMB Class I price for Area 1, which encompasses the Philadelphia market, will be $14.60, Curtin said. This represents a $1.23 increase from the August price, a combination of the $1.05 increase and an 18-cent rise in federal order prices.

One way in which the PMME action will be felt outside Pennsylvania is in its impact on existing over-order bargaining agencies.

The leaders of the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Agency (which represents the interests of members of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Maryland and Virginia Cooperative Milk Producers Association and the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen Inc., the three major cooperatives in Federal Order 4) have set their September premium at the $1.05 level, the highest in the 13-month history of the agency. Maryland and Virginia consultant Jim Click said the PMMB decision helped MACMMA to raise its premium, which stands at 85 cents for the latter part of August.

The Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency, which bargains for over-order prices in federal order 1 and 2, also will boost its September premium, according to executive director Ed Anna. He said the PMMB decision was a factor in the decision of RCMA's directors to seek 75 cents next month, up 20 cents from the bargaining level in August. This, too, is likely to be the highest effective premium that RCMA has imposed since resuming its bargaining efforts last September.

The rising premiums reflect concern about the deepening impact of the drought on area producers. Leaders of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and several statewide farm groups were among those requesting an increase in farm prices at an emergency PMMB hearing July 27. Even the Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers supported the board's decision.

In their testimony, members of

Sarah Likes Pigs

Editor's Note: This little girl likes pigs. Here's what she has to say about the one she holds in the photo:

My name is Sarah Boyd. I am seven-years-old. I live at Ephrata.

I am writing about the little pig I am holding in the photo. Her name is Sadie. I love her. She is cute. She has a pink nose and little black spots on her skin. Her mom is a blueback named Reva. Her dad is a Hamp boar.

My uncle's Rick and Bob Strauss raise the pigs at my grandpa's and grandma's farm. My brother Gerald shows some of the pigs at local fairs for his 4-H project. I like helping him walk and brush the pigs. In two years, I hope to show pigs in 4-H.

Corn Growers Enroll 21,730 Acres

BERKS COUNTY — Berks County farmers enrolled 21,730 base acres of corn in the 1988 feed grain acreage reduction program, according to Donald E. Lutz, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The enrollment represents 51 percent of the county's eligible corn acreage base.

The program authorized farmers to plant and harvest 80 percent of their feed grain acreage base, removing 20 percent of the cropland from production as required by program regulations. Lutz said farmers could voluntarily divert an additional 10 percent of their corn crop for payment.

Drought Bill Provisions Given

WASHINGTON, D.C.— President Reagan recently signed drought relief legislation that will have a major effect on agriculture in the months to come. This bill is the largest disaster relief package ever approved by Congress and carries a $3.9 billion price tag--which could go higher. Costs were based on July 1st crop loss estimates. These have since been exceeded by the latest crop survey.

The corn crop estimate dropped from 5.2 billion bu. in July to 4.48 bil. bu. in August--37 percent below 1987's crop. Soybeans dropped from 1.65 bil bu. to 1.47 bil. bu --down 23 percent from last year. Even so the government may actually be saving money because the anticipated deficiency payments for a normal crop would be $6 bil. higher for fiscal 1989 and 12 bil. more in 1990.

Here is a summary of the drought relief laws major provisions.

1. Relief will go to producers who lose at least 35% of their crop

4-H Keeps Youth From Becoming A Couch Potato

This summer Stacey spent several days each week working as a volunteer tour guide at Wheatland, the former residence of James Buchanan.

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — It is difficult to imagine someone as energetic and exuberant as Stacey Goss as a "couch potato", yet that's exactly the fate she described for herself but for the grace of 4-H.

The active 4-H'er will become even busier as she settles into her new responsibilities as Lancaster County's 1989 Outstanding 4-H'er. Stacey will represent 4-H at various events and explain the organization to the public.

Stacey assumed her new duties at the close of the county 4-H Achievement Night last week from Amy Jo Strasbaugh, this year's Outstanding 4-H'er.

"I want to get more people involved in 4-H," said Stacey. "I feel it is a very important and worthwhile organization: it offers so many opportunities to make your life better."

Becoming the Outstanding 4-H'er is a goal Stacey has held for a long time, perhaps dating back to the years when her older sisters

Acres Corn Update: Corn futures closed higher again today adding another 4 to 6 cents to yesterday's gains Strength today was attributed to a brighter export scenario along with hopes of business with the Soviets Further support came from news late in the session of an attempt to block the USDA and force an extension of producer loans Pressure on the opening was linked to first notice day heavy deliveries. The December trading to a high of $2 97 and closed out at $2 96-1/2, up 5-3/4.

Acres Soybean Update: Soybean futures closed higher today gaining from 7-1/2 to 21 cents on improved technical factors. Further support came from strength in the corn and wheat pits along with ideas strong stoppers would soon emerge for September deliveries in the near future. The November traded to a high of $8.69-1/2 and settled at $8 67-1/2 up 8-1/4 cents.

Acres Wheat Update: Wheat futures closed higher from 1/2 to 2 cents this afternoon with gains in the closing moments made on spillover from the corn and soybean pits The export outlook remains uncertain for soft red, with India tendering this morning for 250,000 MT of hard red News that the USDA had rejected China's bid along with bids from Iraq and Jordan was seen as bearish September still failed to touch the $4.00 mark but inched closer today with a high of $3.98

Acres Cattle Update: Live cattle futures closed from unchanged on the August '89 option to 63 points lower on the spot option. Selling today was attributed to ideas of good packer inventories and concerns that retailers would begin to back away from higher priced product A steep increase in open interest pressured the opening along with weaker cash markets, with fed trade $ 50 lower Feeders settled slightly lower as spillover from live cattle pressured. A uptick in the CME Feeder Settlement prices limited further losses
CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE 8/29/88- $81 77 up $ 22
ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady to lower futures-steady to lower

Acres Hog Update: Live hog futures settled from 48 to 95 points lower this afternoon as continued cash market weakness pressured along with ideas of increased marketings for the next several days Lower midday wholesale values added to the pressure along with spillover from the cattle pits Support came from the approach of oversold conditions and expanded featuring for the Labor Day holiday
ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady to lower futures - steady to lower.

August 30, 1988

Trade sentiment was barely steady and cautious. Buying activity was light and disappointing. Breakers bid lower for raw materials to help in making attractive offerings of finished product. Floor stocks easily satisfied current demand.

AREAS TO LOOK AT TO IMPROVE PROFITABILITY

1. Use 2- feed system for milk cows. Fresh cows get high density feed for peak lactation, and tail enders are fed least cost ration.
2. Increase forage feeding to lower producing cows - this will reduce amount of feed needed to balance program.
3. Don't keep extra benefits - it costs approximately $300 per year to feed each heifer. Milking cows x 60% gives you total number of heifers birth to fresh. Example 50 milk cows x 60% = 30 heifers total.
4. Work on a better growing program for the generally neglected yearling heifer. Bigger "spring of rib" heifers will eat more forage and give a bigger milk check during their first lactation. Heifers need to average 15,000-16,000 lbs. of milk for their first lactation.
5. Use NPN (non-protein nitrogen) to reduce protein costs in mid to late lactation dairy rations.
6. Reduce overhead- rented ground and poorly utilized equipment can be costly. It generally pays to grow your forages, but look at using custom services for silo filling.

Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200.9 bu./A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252.4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

OPINION

Job Well Done

Labor Day is a celebration of the value of work. Across the Commonwealth and our nation, we take a moment to reflect on the fruits of our collective work and our common well-being. Julius Uehlein, president, Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, says for most people, work is the source of basic necessities - food, clothing and shelter. "Through the years, we have come to a common understanding that human work is more than bare survival, Uehlein said. "It provides a basis for human dignity and establishes in an important way the foundation for our common good. Work not only provides for family needs, but is one of the most fundamental expressions of the greater vision of humankind."

While persons on traditional 9 to 5 work schedules have looked to Labor Day as a day of vacation, farmers often labor on Labor Day. Filling silo. Preparing fall seeding ground. Or harvesting tobacco. Yet the labor of farmers provides great economic and social value often overlooked by city counterparts. With an abundant, cheap food supply produced on our farms, the urban labor force can use almost 75 percent of their pay check for items other than food. In addition, since one out of five jobs in Pennsylvania relates directly to agriculture, farmers have a direct impact on the total economy and employment figures.

So, while this is the time to recognize the value of human work across America, we especially want to express appreciation for farmers who often work every day (including holidays) to feed us. They do a good job.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin

To Control Johnsongrass

This sorghum-like grass is a problem on many fields in this part of the state. There are cases where nothing is being done to control this weed; for those I would remind you that Johnsongrass is listed as a noxious weed in Pennsylvania. In corn there is little that can be done at this time of year except cut the seed-head off and burn them. It'll require treatment at planting time.

However, in other fields such as small grains, where the growth of Johnsongrass reaches 2½ to 3 feet...in the boot stage...the plants may be sprayed with Roundup. These plants are very heavy seed producers; a few plants allowed to go to seed this fall will mean hundreds of plants next summer. Johnsongrass is fast growing and will crowd out most farm crops. We urge landowners to make every effort to eliminate Johnsongrass from their farm. The 1987-88 Agronomy guide lists control information.

To Mow or Not To Mow Alfalfa

Each year we receive a lot of calls as to whether alfalfa should be cut the first part of September or not. According to crop authorities it is not just a simple yes or no question. If you have left your cutting go to full bloom, then you do not need to be concerned; however, if you have not, it would be best not to cut the first two weeks of September. The reason for this is, it's the period when the plants are storing food in developing rhizomes for next year's growth. It is important this year that a period of 45 days be allowed between the 4th and 5th cutting. It is also important on stands that have been established this year, that 45 days be allowed between the 2nd and 3rd cuttings; this will add strength to the plant and will give better winter protection.

To Be Safe During This Busy Season

We are entering one of the busiest and most hazardous times of the year ... silo filling and corn picking time. Blend into that time wheat and barley planting and cutting alfalfa. This means a lot of farm machinery will be on our highways during semi-dark or dark hours.

Slow moving vehicles such as farm equipment traveling on highways presents a real traffic hazard. The motorist must recognize that a tractor traveling at 10 to 15 miles per hour is almost standing still compared to a 55 mph car. Most highway drivers have never driven a farm machine on the highway and simply do not realize how slow they do travel.

Proper identification and warning is real important. Let's keep alert this busy fall season both on the highway and in the fields.

To Appreciate Lancaster County

While attending the National County Agent's meeting in Charlotte, North Carolina in mid-August, we had the opportunity to visit farms in the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountain area. Their main crops are tobacco, corn, soybeans, wood products, wheat and hay. North Carolina is the number one state in turkey production and one of the top in broiler production where Holly Farms largest broiler processing plant handles over 400,000 birds per day.

The speakers were very informative and inspirational but the most important part for me is the exchange of ideas and concerns with agricultural agents from all states in the U.S. It makes you really appreciate the many good things that we have at home.

It's About Time! I just opened our Lancaster Farmer; my first section is always B1 — the ladies page. I was happy to find that Ag Progress Days is indeed progressing. I have been hoping for years that crafts would soon be an added attraction.

I always felt a little cheated coming home from Ag Progress Days. While visions of New Combines - no till drills - corn planters etc. left the guys with something to "dream about" for days and days. I've always felt there could have been some food for my dreams too. A new wreath for my front door - some new craft to try this winter by the fireplace. The possibilities are endless - more horticulture - landscaping - crafts - crafts - crafts.

Pass it on to the Ag Progress Committee — keep it growing.

I'll be the first one in the car next year!

I hope that you will find a place in your paper for this letter which I hope all my fellow pork producers will take the time to read. It is very important that all eligible pork producers get out and vote Wednesday or Thursday, September 7 or 8, in the pork referendum. All it will take is a few minutes at the County Extension Office to cast your vote "yes" or "no." Naturally, I hope you will vote "yes" because it means a lot to the future of our industry.

By voting in favor of the checkoff, we will be making a sound investment in the future of our industry. The pork checkoff makes possible many programs that help promote pork, therefore increasing demand and putting more money in our pockets. Some of these programs include the "pork-the other white meat" and "America's cut" campaigns. National pork spokesperson Peggy Fleming, and vital research which helps us produce a better product, are also paid for with checkoff dollars.

As pork producers, I hope you realize that programs like the ones mentioned are a must in order to keep creating long-term opportunities in the pork industry. I hope you realize the importance of voting in favor of the pork checkoff on

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS LIFE FAIR?

September 4, 1988

Backround Scripture: Job 1:1 through 2:10.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 10:1-13.

How often in my life someone has said to me: "I've tried to live a good life — faithful in my church, tithed my income, given liberally to charities and helped people in need, tried to be a good husband and father, never broken the law and been a good citizen — how, then, could God let something like this happen to me?" (The "this," of course, was a devastating personal loss, a terrible illness or incapacitating handicap.)

It is certainly a reasonable question, isn't it? Who among us would not be likely to say pretty much the same thing? Actually, it is not so much a question as it is a complaint. Few of us would be so bold as to protest that "God is not good!", but we might be moved to exclaim, in one way or another, "Life is not fair!"

GOOD FOR NAUGHT?

According to the Book of Job, even God regarded Job as the best of Men. When God encounters Satan, it seems that he brags a bit about Job: "Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil?" (Job 1:8). It is Satan who raises that eternal question: "Does Job fear God for naught?" (1:9). Is Job "good" out of reverence and love for God, or is it because God has been so good to him? "Thou has blessed the work of his hands, and his possessions have increased in the land," argues Satan (1:10). The writer of Job has also testified: "This man was the greatest of all the people of the east" (1:3).

Then, Satan challenged God to a test: "But put forth thy hand now, and touch all that he has, and he will curse thee to thy face" (1:11). In other words, if you take away all your gifts to Job, he won't remain faithful and good. But Satan lost the first test, for although Satan took away all Job's flocks and killed his children, Job retained his faith: "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return; the Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord" (1:21).

WHY BE GOOD?

Undaunted, Satan suggested another test: take away Job's health and then let's see how "good" he remains. Once again, however, he loses, for when the sorrowing, ailing Job is chided by his wife to "Curse God and die," Job responds: "Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?" (2:9,10). In other words, our relationship with God is not dependent upon the circumstances of our lives. Our covenant with God does not promise freedom from sorrow, pain, loss or sickness. If we are to be "good," it is out of faithfulness as God is faithful.

Life is not fair, but God in his mercy and love is more than fair.

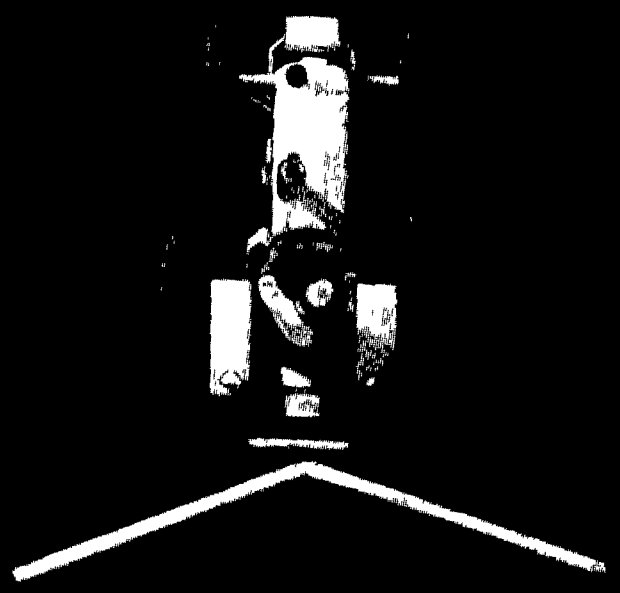
DOUG CARPENTER

Farm Credit Is Plowing New Ground.



There's something satisfying about that morning when the winter wait's over and you start breaking ground for a new growing season.

At Farm Credit, we know the feeling. Because we're owned and controlled by farmers. And because we've just finished the groundwork to make our services faster. More economical. And more responsive to you than ever before.

We're adding the business technology to cut paperwork. And we're expanding our services, so you can come to us for all your farm loans. Loans to buy acreage or build on it. Production loans for seed and fertilizer. Equipment loans for new machinery. And our people will be there for you season after season, plowdown to harvest. People who understand farming from the ground up.

Our changes aren't earth-shaking. They're simply ways to set up the best possible conditions for growth.

And whether it's done with a plan or a plow, that's what breaking new ground is all about.

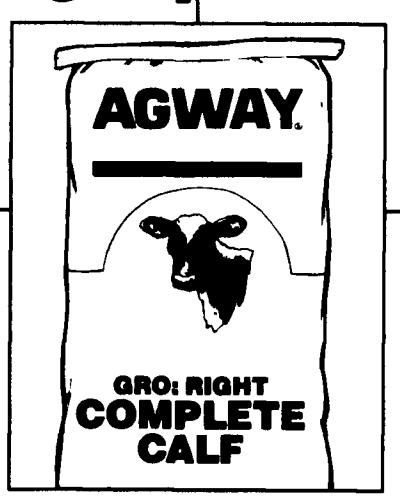
Freshen faster with new Agway Gro:Right. ™



Every calf you raise costs about $60 a month for forage and labor. So if you could breed them at 14 months (6 months earlier than average), they'd freshen at 24 months and you'd save $360 on each calf. Not to mention the profits from 6 extra months of milking.

New Agway Gro:Right Complete Calf Feed can help you do that. It's an improved version of our Total Calf Ration, the brand Northeastern farmers have been using since 1976 to maximize calf-raising efficiency. We've added milk protein and B vitamin complex for rapid growth and efficient energy usage. So calves raised on Agway Complete Calf reach breeding weight in 14 months and join the milking string in 24 months.

Save hundreds, even thousands of dollars down the road. For more information, contact your Agway Store or Farm Enterprise Salesperson.

Pa. Bred Bull Enters Select Sires

PLAIN CITY, OH — 7H3462 Ju-Vindale Mandingo Dick-ET, a young sire bred by Christopher L. Wagner of Myerstown, PA, has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system. Based on his outstanding pedigree, 7H3462 has been selected as one of 150 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1988.

7H3462 is sired by the very popular Mandingo. The dam, Ju-Vindale Tradition Dancer, is a VG(88) Tradition daughter with two records over 30,000M and 1,030F. The VG(87) Conductor grandam has three consecutive records over 23,000M and 800F. The third dam is also a tremendousu producer with a top record of 6-01 365d 27,753M 3.4% 972F.

Select Sires is a family of 12 farmer-owned and controlled A.I. cooperatives, serving the largest number of co-op members in the United States. 7H543 Carlin-M Ivanhoe Bell, one of the breed's elite sires of high indexing daughters and A.I. proven sons, is an example of the superior genetics Select Sires offers. These results assist the federation in achieving its basic objective - to supply livestock breeders with the industry's top genetics.

Ag Republicans To Hold Breakfast

A "Breakfast in the Country" event is planned for September 10 beginning at 9:30 a.m. at Black Pond Farm located six miles north of Meadville on Route 86. When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The 19 11/16-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540 rpm or 1000 rpm PTO drive.

Stop in today and trade for the performance leader in harvesters — the 790 from Ford New Holland.

You get total performance when you harvest your crops with a Model 900 forage harvester. Total performance begins at the cutterhead. The 12 knives of the 21-inch cutterhead give you uniformly cut high-quality forage. Other features on the 900 include:

- Metalert II electronic metal detector — protects cutterhead and your valuable animals
- Electromagnetic clutches — give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar — makes adjustment fast and precise.

NEWS FROM REGIONAL COOPERATIVE MARKETING AGENCY INC RCMA

BATAVIA, N.Y. — In response to the deepening economic crisis threatening dairy farmers in the Northeast, the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) has launched an aggressive campaign to help bolster falling dairy farm income.

"We will explore every possible way to secure higher over-order prices for our 22,000 dairy-farmer members," according to RCMA President Bill Zuber. "We will soon contact governors, state agriculture commissioners and legislative leaders throughout the Northeast, and encourage them to follow the lead of Vermont, Maine and Pennsylvania, who have already taken steps to counter the tightening cost squeeze that is forcing family farms out of business at an alarming rate."

According to Zuber, "We are an industry at risk. Seven consecutive years of falling milk prices paid to farmers, combined with skyrocketing costs, have left a lot of family farms hanging on by just a thread."

Although RCMA haws distributed over $20 million in added income to its members since last September, RCMA officials say additional help is needed on the state level to keep the Northeast dairy industry alive and healthy.

In New York, for instance, RCMA will be investigating the provisions of the "Rogers-Allen Act" which authorizes a role for the Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets in securing higher prices for farmers.

"Agriculture is our single largest industry," said Zuber, "And in the Northeast, where the dairy business is the largest component of the industry, we lost over 1,400 farms last year alone. And if we allow this crisis to continue, farmers won't be the only ones who lose."

Any income that may result from the recent Federal legislation, said Zuber, will not show up in the dairy farmer's mailbox for almost a year. "There will be a lot of bills due between now and then and many good farms will go under in the meantime."

RCMA officials point to programs already in place in certain states that are reducing the severity of the current crisis for some dairy farmers. Maine, for example, has enacted legislation that requires all milk processors in that state to pay the RCMA Class 1 differential and also uses regulatory authority to further increase dairy farm income.

Vermont is providing some property tax relief and a direct payment to individual dairy farmers provided the farmers take part in a self-help program like RCMA.

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has enacted, with RCMA support, a $1.05 premium on milk produced and sold in the state. This increased income is being paid to farmers depending on how much of their milk is sold as bottled milk.

"When the price of feed increases by 15 percent, it's the same thing as cutting the milk price paid to farmers by 50 cents per hundredweight," said Zuber. "Feed costs have already jumped 25 to 30 percent due to the drought. That's like the price of gasoline jumping 30-cents a gallon overnight."

Other than over-order pricing (a price paid above the minimum set by the federal government), farmers have no way to recover these increased production costs--except in states where appropriate legislation has been enacted.

According to RCMA Executive Director Ed Anna, "Falling milk prices have forced the farmers' income down, while the drought has driven his costs up and the family farm out of business."

Consumers will also lose if relief does not come soon, Anna said. "The drought of 1988 taught us how fragile our food supply really is. If farmers don't have adequate income to remain in business, there will be very little we can do once the industry is gone. Then milk supplies will have to come from other regions of the country at higher costs."

Anna emphasized that action must be taken immediately. "The prospect of record numbers of producers dispersing their herds this winter and spring should scare the daylights out of our government leaders," Anna said, "In the meantime, RCMA will continue its effort to deliver higher over-order premiums to its members."

Corn Growers Enroll

For participating in the program, corn growers are eligible for a federal target price guarantee of $2.93 per bushel on their 1988 crop, and price support loans at a national average rate of $1.77 per bushel. Those who diverted the additional 10 percent received land diversion payments at a rate of $1.75 per bushel for corn, Lutz said.

PASS Releases State Crop Predictions

HARRISBURG (Aug. 16) — Based on Aug. 1 conditions, the state's farmers in 1988 will produce more barley, soybeans and apples while harvesting less corn, oats, wheat, pears, grapes, hay and tobacco than last year, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

The Commonwealth's production of peaches is expected to hold even with last year, PASS reported.

PASS forecast the state's corn crop — hit hard by the drought — at 54,450,000 bushels, down 36 percent from last year. Average yield for the 990,000 acres planted was placed at 55 bushels.

The state's soybean harvest, based on Aug. 1 conditions, was estimated at 5,945,000 bushels, a 6 percent increase over 1987. The 205,000 acres that Pennsylvania's farmers planted in soybeans this year represents a record high. Yield is forecast at 29 bushels.

PASS' forecasts for the other crops are:

OATS — 260,000 acres, 50 bushels per acre, 13 million bushels total, down 12 percent and a record low production.

BARLEY — 55,000 acres, a record high yield of 66 bushels per acre, 3,630,000 bushels total, up 6 percent.

WINTER WHEAT — A record low 170,000 acres, 44 bushels per acre, 7,480,000 bushels total, down 6 percent.

ALFALFA HAY — 840,000 acres, 2.9 tons per acre, 2,436,000 tons, down 10 percent.

OTHER HAY — 1,240,000 acres, 2 tons per acre, 2,480,000 tons, up slightly.

ALL TOBACCO — 10,000 acres, 1,883 pounds per acre, 18,825,000 pounds, down 9 percent.

APPLES — 470 million pounds, up 2 percent.

PEACHES — 85 million pounds, no change.

PEARS — 2,500 tons, down 22 percent.

GRAPES — 60,000 tons, down 4 percent.

PASS reported the number of farms in the Commonwealth, as of June 1, at 56,000, a decline of 500 from a year ago. Land in farms declined 1 percent from the previous year to 8.4 million acres.

Nationally, based on Aug. 1 crop conditions, the following are the 1988 crop forecasts, inicluding acreages to be harvested, yield per acre, total estimated production, and percentage change from 1987:

CORN — 57.1 million acres, 78.5 bushels per acre, 4.48 billion bushels, down 37 percent.

OATS — 5.4 million acres, 38.4 bushels per acre, 206.3 million bushels, down 45 percent.

BARLEY — 7.4 million acres, 38.9 bushels per acre, 287.7 million bushels, down 45 percent.

SOYBEANS — 56.7 million acres, 26 bushels per acre, 1.47 billion bushels, down 23 percent.

ALL HAY — 66.2 million acres, 1.97 tons per acre; 130.5 million tons, down 12 percent.

ALL TOBACCO — 620,770 acres, 2,034 pounds per acre, 1.26 billion pounds, up 6 percent.

U.S. fruit production was forecast as follows:

APPLES — 8,073.1 million pounds, down 23 percent.

PEACHES — 2,527.8 million pounds, up 4 percent.

PEARS — 818.1 tons, down 13 percent.

GRAPES — 5,509 thousand tons, up 5 percent.

The number of farms in the United States in 1988 is estimated at 2.16 million, down 1 percent from 1987. For the first time, land in farms declined to less than a billion acres, falling to 999 million acres. That was a drop of less than 1 percent from the previous year.

NC+ HYBRIDS

HYBRID SELECTION IS BASIC TO "QUALITY SILAGE"

Years ago little emphasis was placed on selecting a special corn hybrid for silage. It was common practice to cut the poorest corn for silage and to save the best corn for grain harvest. However, today the real silage growers, cattle feeders and top dairy producers, recognize the value of good silage, and manage the crop for quality feed as well as tonnage.

Hybrid selection pays a vital part in the management of silage production. One of the largest corn silage users in the United States, Monforts of Colorado, considers seed selection so important that they purchase hybrid seed and furnish it to their growers.

Monforts conduct intensive hybrid variety testing programs every year (two plots x five replications). For a hybrid to meet their approval list, it must qualify over a FIVE YEAR TESTING PROGRAM and have AT LEAST 45% of the DRY MATTER IN THE ear AT the TIME OF CUTTING. It isn't uncommon for Colorado silage growers to cut 30-35 tons per acre with 30% dry matter.

In order to meet these quality requirements and provide high tonnage hybrids, NC+ HYBRIDS ESTABLISHED a CORN RESEARCH TEST FIELD ON THE Terry Wiedeman Farm, located south of Greeley, Co in 1975. Hundreds of NC+ experimental corn hybrids have been screened and tested each year ever since. This research is backed by NC+ "On-The-Farm" test strips, where advanced experimentals are machine planted and cut in full-field length rows, weighed, and analyzed for dry matter content and ear-to-stalk ratios.

A typical program for a Monfort grower located in the Greeley area would be to begin cutting Labor Day on NC+ 4650. Then on to NC+ 59 and NC+ 6190 a week later. Larger acreage growers finish out the silage production season by the third week in September with NC+ 7507. RESULTS SHOW ALL THESE NC+ HYBRIDS CAPABLE OF PUTTING 50-55% of the DRY MATTER IN THE EAR AT PRIME-TIME CUTTING.

* * * * * * * *

Having the ability to provide 50-55% of the dry matter in the ear at prime-time cutting these NC+ HYBRIDS can provide maximum---HIGH MOISTURE CORN YIELDS.

The Monfort company furnishes up to 2,000 bags of NC+ 90,000 Kernel Seed Corn to their growers.

Consider: That is almost 7,000 acres of silage at an average of 32.5 tons per acre = 227,500 tons or 455,000,000 pounds.

Their two present feed lots have a combined total capacity of 360,000 head and lot #3 for an additional 180,000 is under construction.

FARM MANAGEMENT

Life Insurance For Farm Families

Patricia L. Powley
Family Resource Management Agent
Financial and Consumer Issues

Farmers use life insurance to manage a number of financial responsibilities. An insurance program should consider each responsibility individually and recognize that some will have priority over others.

Family income: Income to the family in case of death of the breadwinner is by far the most important reason for carrying insurance. To best cover this need with a given amount of money to spend on insurance, policies that feature protection are needed. The need for protection is greatest while the family is young, and decreases gradually over the years.

Life insurance is especially valuable for family protection because it is paid immediately and directly to the beneficiary and does not go into the general estate of the insured. Furthermore, the proceeds of a life insurance contract cannot be attached for the debts of the insured.

Debt insurance: Insurance to cover indebtedness of the business is really the same as providing income to the family. If a farmer dies and leaves the business free and clear or leaves enough insurance to cover indebtedness, the family has the farm capital to live on.

Patricia L. Powley

A cash fund to cover expenses of death: There are always expenses associated with a death in the family. It may be important to see that some cash funds are available for this purpose.

Income in later years: Savings can be accumulated in the form of high-investment-type life insurance to provide retirement income. Most farmers prefer to provide for retirement by building up a successful farm business so that they can retire on the income from the operation or sale of the business. Social Security is also available for this purpose.

Insurance as an investment: Farmers can realize better returns on money invested in their farm business than on money invested in savings insurance - straight or universal life policies. Farmers who are borrowing money to operate their business and at the same time paying premiums on insurance policies that feature investment are paying higher interest rates than they are receiving. It would be wiser for them to spend their insurance dollars primarily for protection and use their farms for investment. Farmers who have their farms paid for and have little need for greater investment in their business can add diversity and stability to their financial program by investing in life insurance or other conservative investments.

Saving for a college education: It certainly is good business to save for the education of the children. However, this represents a need for saving rather than insurance on the children. There are many ways to save for the education of the children. Investing in insurance is one way. If this method of savings is chosen the insurance should be carried on the life of the breadwinners so that whether they live or die, funds will be available for the children's education. As a child's death would seldom cause loss of income to the family, there is little need for protection in this form.

Insurance on the farm homemaker: A farm homemaker contributes much to the farm business in addition to all the usual functions of homemaker and parent. The death of a farm homemaker commonly creates a heavy economic burden, especially if she contributes non-farm income. It is practical to use insurance as protection against this loss.

In looking over the needs that a farmer has for life insurance, it becomes evident that the protection feature is generally more important than the investment feature.

Young persons struggling to provide for a growing family and establish a farm business have a particular need for insurance. If they live and stay healthy, they will eventually built up a good net worth in the farm. When this is accomplished, they and their family will have income from their labor and from the capital invested in the farm. If a farmer dies after establishing an adequate net worth, the family will have the income from the sale or operation of the farm. Few families owning a good farm with a high net worth would suffer from want. The real risk the family takes is that the young farmer will die before accomplishing these objecctives.

Young farmers who are heavily in debt for their farms and have growing families thus have an urgent need for life insurance protection. They seldom, if ever, are in the position to use life insurance as an investment.

The amount of protection the family needs depends to a degree on what the family expects as a level of living. The amount of property in the form of insurance, a farm, Social Security, and so forth that is needed to provide a given level of income overtime can be estimated.

As a farm family, look over your insurance needs. Are you adequately protected?

USDA Lowers Wheat Target Price, Loan Rate

W. CHESTER - George Stickels, county executive director of the Chester/Delaware County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the 1989 Wheat Program contains a lower target price, loan rate and acreage reduction percentage than the 1988 program. The U.S. Department of Agriculture reduced the wheat loan rate by 7 percent; lowered the target price by 3 percent and reduced the acreage reduction percentage by 17.5 percentage points.

"A 10 percent acreage reduction requirement will be in effect for 1989 wheat, compared to a 27.5 percent reduction in 1988," Stickels said. "This means that program participants will be required to maintain an acreage conservation reserve area equal to 11.11 percent of their planted acres."

Wheat producers who comply with program provisions will be eligible for price support loans at a national average of $2.06 per bushel and target price protection at $4.10 per bushel.

Stickels said the program will not have a paid land diversion, nor will marketing loan provisions be implemented. He said 1989 wheat will be subject to limited cross compliance, meaning that the acreage planted for harvest on a farm may not exceed the crop acreage base to be eligible for program benefits.

As in 1988, the 1989 Wheat Program prohibits the production of nonprogram crops on land idled under the acreage reduction program. Farmers will not be allowed to upwardly adjust any crop acreage base with a corresponding downward adjustment in other crop acreage on the farm. However, adjustments in crop acreage bases on a farm will be considered when producers need to change cropping practices to carry out conservation compliance requirements on highly erodible land.

The ASCS official said that Agriculture Secretary Lyng determined a downward adjustment in the loan rate and target price was necessary to maintain U.S. wheat competitiveness in domestic and international markets.

4-H Keeps Youth

held similar positions. Her eldest sister, Pam, was crowned 4-H Queen in 1980, while sister, Sherry, was the Outstanding 4-H Girl in 1984.

Stacey, 17, is the youngest daughter of Albert and Evie Goss of Pequea. She began her 4-H career as an eight-year-old. "My parents were leaders at the Penn Willow Community Club," she remembered. "And my older sisters were in it." It was only natural then for Stacey to follow the family footsteps.

For her first project, she was given a newly hatched rooster chick to raise as part of learning pet care. For the chick's first few weeks, it was touch and go as it struggled to live. But it proved ornery enough to pull through and peck Stacey's feet whenever it got the chance.

As a member of the community club, Stacey participated in a wide range of activities including cooking, flower judging, backpacking, weaving, babysitting, and air pistol. Her favorite pastime is shooting her air pistol, an activity that has led her to state-wide competitions during State Days at Penn State. Stacey attends Penn Manor High School where she will be a senior this year. She is involved in the school orchestra, where she plays the violin, is the choir's accompaniest, and is a member of the International Thespian Society, into which she was initiated in ninth grade. Stacey has been involved with seven plays and musicals.

"Hello Dolly" remains Stacey's favorite production, partially because she believes it was the school's best musical and partly because of her role. "I was part of the horse. I was the hind end, but that's okay because nobody saw me." As the white horse, Stacey and a friend performed a short dance.

Other productions that Stacey has been involved in include "The Good Doctor" and "The Martian Chronicles". She was stage manager in the latter play, which she found was difficult work.

This past summer Stacey has been doing volunteer work as a docent at Wheatland, former residence of James Buchanan. "I like history and thought this would be neat," said Stacey of her role as a period-dressed tour guide. She was inspired to become a docent after a family trip to Williamsburg.

"I will always remember the bathroom upstairs when I had to describe it," Stacey predicted. "I was too embarrassed to explain what the bidet was. I told tourists to look it up."

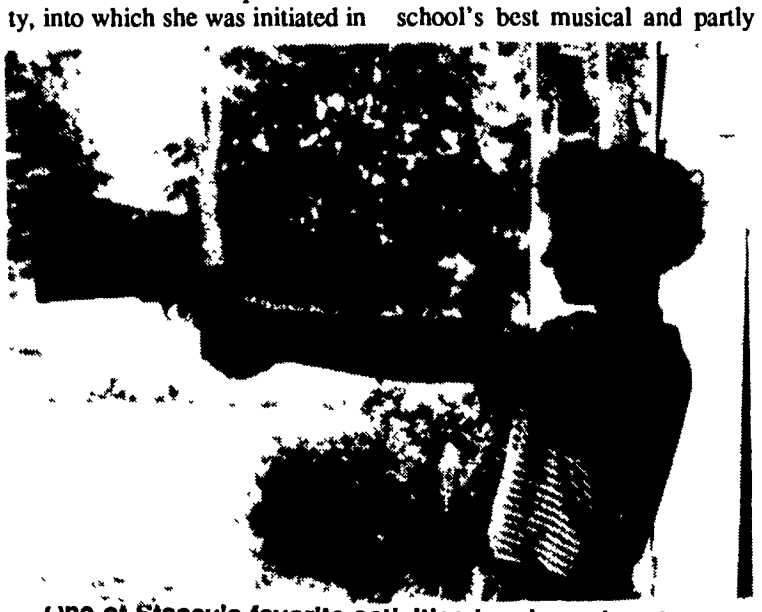
Tour groups composed of senior citizens were Stacey's favorite type of group to lead. "They were the nicest groups," she said. "They ask a lot of questions and talk to you about your outfit and the house."

In addition to her other activities, Stacey is a member of Refton Brethern In Christ Church in Refton. She occasionally plays the violin or piano during offeratory and helps out in the nursery.

Stacey plans to attend Millersville University next year to take advantage of its music department and of its proximity to her parents' home. She hopes to major in music, and perhaps teach it.

Being a 4-H'er has taught Stacey many things. "It teaches responsibility and how to use time wisely," she explained. Leadership is another characteristic she gained by being a 4-H'er.

But mostly, "through 4-H I have gained more knowledge about the whole world around me," she said. "And I want to learn lots of things in my lifetime."



One of Stacey's favorite activities involves shooting an air pistol. She has gone to Penn State and participated in State Days in air pistol for the past three years.

Weaving is one of the arts that Stacey has learned as a 4-H'er. Hanging on the wall is her first project while the rug she hold is her latest weaving project.

A violinist and pianist, Stacey hopes to attend Millersville University next year and enroll in their music program. Currently she is a member of Penn Manor High School's orchestra, accompaniest for the school choir, and performs during offeratory at her church.

Over-Order Premiums

the Pennsylvania Farmers Association presented detailed evidence that $1.05 is needed to offset the impact of higher feed costs on the profit margins of Pennsylvania dairymen. Dick Dennison, head of the PFA's Farm Management Services, a financial service with more than 2,000 dairymen as clients, said PFA records show that purchased feed accounts for about 28 percent of the average farmer's cash expenses. These feed costs have risen 34 percent since April, Dennison added. Moreover, no decrease is expected given the gloomy crop estimates released Aug. 11 by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dennison said the PMMB differential will be a big help to dairymen even though it only applies to Class I milk. Class II milk, which is used to make cheese and other manufactured products, is not affected by the increase.

The board's jurisdiction does not extend to out of state dealers so Pennsylvania milk shipped across state lines also remains unaffected by the PMMB action. However, between its premium and those negotiated by RCMA and MACMA, almost every dairyman in the state will benefit, according to industry officials.

A few farmers might realize the full $1.05 in their milk checks. But most will receive some portion determined by the percentage of their milk used in fluid products or the Class I utilization percentage for the federal order pool under which they're also regulated. This is about 50 percent for Order 4 producers and 40 percent for those in Order 2.

Over-order agency officials already have figured how to mesh their prices with those being set by PMMB. This will be easy for MACMMA members, who have the same price. RCMA producers in Pennsylvania will receive whichever is higher: the price determined by a RCMA premium or one using the PMMB differential.

Pennsylvania is one of the few states in the region with a state milk marketing board that has price setting authority. In Maine, where a similar entity exists, RCMA's Anna said, local dairymen will enjoy premiums of $1.75 for Class I milk and 50 cents for Class II milk in September.

Although the PMMB action could be regarded as a sign that existing groups -- and RCMA in particular -- have been ineffective in achieving the kind of prices that financially troubled Northeast dairymen need to stay in business, Anna said he welcomed the move.

"We don't think that RCMA in and of itself can make the difference," he said. The organization is encouraging other states to take similar action, he added.

Both Leon Wilkinson, a Chester County, Pa., dairyman, and Paul O'Hop of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who represents consumers on the board, voted for the $1.05 increase. The third board member, J. Robert Derry, did not vote. The members also approved an increase of 6-12 cents a gallon in the prices that processors can charge consumers to compensate them for the other increase.

Drought Relief Bill Provisions Given

due to "drought, hail, excessive moisture or related conditions" and will apply to 1988 and 1987 disasters with a $40 million cap on relief for 1987.

2. Livestock producers with over $2.5 million in gross revenue and crop producers with over $2 million will not be eligible for disaster assistance. Revenue will be determined as: agricultural income only if a majority of the person's income comes from nonagricultural sources.

3. Livestock assistance will be limited to producers of cattle, sheep, goats, swine, poultry (including eggs) and other livestock producers who grew their own feed and have suffered a loss of that production.

4. A dairy support price cut on Jan. 1 is prohibited. Instead the support price will increase 50 cents to $11.10/cwt. in April, May and June, 1989.

5. Farmers who lost 35% to 75% of their normal crop will receive disaster payments equal to 65% of the target price for program crops or historical average price for non-program crops. Those with greater losses will receive 90% compensation. Disaster payments will not exceed $100,000 per individual farmer. Livestock feed assistance can not exceed $50,000 per producer.

6. Repayment of any portion of deficiency payments will not be due until July 31, 1989.

7. Crop insurance for 1989 will be required at minimal coverage levels for producers receiving drought assistance who have losses over 65% of normal yield. This requirement may be waived by county ASC committees for producers who can demonstrate that it will create an undue financial burden.

8. Soybean and sunflower planting will be permitted next year on 10% to 25% of wheat, feed grain, cotton or rice acreage without jeopardizing crop base. Unlimited oats planting will be permitted on program acreage in 1989 and 1990 if feed grain set-asides are reduced below 12.5%.

9. Tree farmers will be eligible to receive 65% of replanting costs for losses to seedlings planted over the past two years. Payments will be limited to $25,000 per grower and will not be available to those who own over 1,000 acres.

10. Low interest (4.5%) loans will be available from FmHA to producers who meet criteria. Crop insurance requirements have been waived.

All drought assistance eligibility and benefits will be determined by ASCS on a farm-by-farm basis. Contact your local ASCS office for further information.

Films From Dairy Council Prove Successful

WILLIAMSPORT, PA — With the help of Dairy Council Inc. (DCI) children throughout Pennsylvania have learned about milk. "Where Milk Comes From," a program consisting of four films and videos, developed by DCI for educators in schools and day-care centers, has taught children about dairy farms, cows and milk processing.

In "Where Does Milk Come From?" and "Milk in The Computer Age," children view milk processing from cow to carton. "Uncle Jim's Dairy Farm" explores life on a modern dairy farm. "The Wholly Cow" uses animated sequences to show how cows' feed is digested, absorbed and used to make milk.

Developed in January 1988, the film and video program has been very successful. More than 70 requests for the program have been made in Pennsylvania's 16-county DCI service area. Future plans for the program include providing Pennsylvania Dairy Princesses with the opportunity to use the program at various seminars.

For more information about "Where Milk Comes From," contact DCI at (800) HOT-MILK (in Pennsylvania and New Jersey) or (800) ADA-MILK (in New York). DCI is a non-profit nutrition education organization serving the health and education communities in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. It is funded by 20,000 dairy farmers in this tri-state area.

Consumers Are Winners At PDPP Ag Progress Booth

Hundreds of visitors to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program's "Summer Love Social" at "Ag Progress Days" in State College, PA (August 16-18) can now be sure their dairy products are kept fresh, thanks to the refrigerator thermometers they were given by the PDPP.

The enormously popular "Make it Milk" specialty item was one among several promotional prizes offered by the dairy farmer-governed organization. The lucky raffle winners of a pair of Penn State football game tickets were: C.R. Palmer of Spring Mills, PA; Helen Shannon of St. Marys, PA; and State Representative Dick Hess of Bedford, PA.

Drawings were also held for wooden ice cream freezers. Receiving the six-quart freezer were Edward Hogue of Ebensburg, PA; Isabelle Walter of Middleburg, PA; and James W. Olberholtzen of Manheim, PA. The four-quart freezer winners were Kelly MacDonald of Towson, MD; Sharon Vorse-Yu of State College, PA; and Eleanor McNutt of Pittsburgh, PA.

The PDPP's "Summer Love Social" was co-sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess & Promotion Services and the Jr. Guernsey Breeders Association.

Grain drying quality

Shivvers automatic continuous flow grain drying systems eliminate the over-drying often caused by slow stirring devices. The Shivvers' secret is the tapered sweep auger which rotates around the drying bin, removing even layers of dried grain, assuring the removal of uniformly dried grain. Bunny Facts From Hoppin Haven Rabbitry

By Barbara Miller
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming) — The ubiquitous rabbit -- he's so much a part of American tradition and life that we hardly even notice. Rabbits are everywhere, from the Easter Bunny to Peter Rabbit to Bugs Bunny to the latest on the rabbit scene, the acclaimed Disney and Speilberg movie "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" Nor can we escape the fuzzy creature in real life, for most of us have owned rabbits or encountered the cottontail as we go about our normal routine.

They are such a familiar part of our lives that we think there is little that would surprise us about them. But do you know a baby rabbit needs only two drops of his mother's milk a day to survive? Contrary to popular opinion, a buck and doe caged together may never reproduce unless they are separated for a time. And further, that they can be taught to come to the call of their name, roll over, and to be leash trained, and litter trained like a cat.

All of the above interesting facts about rabbits and more, surfaced during conversation with Frank and Judie Welch, owners of Hoppin Haven Rabbitry, Linden. The Welches are certified members of the American Rabbit Breeders Association (ARBA) and currently have approximately 300 rabbits in their backyard. According to Judie, this includes show animals, pets, and about 250 of the New Zealand Baby Beef variety, which are sold as meat animals.

The Welches have a wall of trophies won in competition all over the United States for showing their pedigreed rabbits. And, Judie states, Frank will soon be receiving an award from the National Federation of Flemish Giants for accumulating the most points in the nation for showing the breed in competition last year. Frank's 8,478 sweepstake points is more than double the number of points tallied by last year's winner.

Things do move along fast in the rabbit lane since it was only five years ago that the Welches scoured the coutryside at Easter time looking for two rabbits for their small daughter, Faith. The couple's previous experience with rabbits was limited to their childhoods when both had owned the furry creatures as pets.

FRank, Judie, and Faith Welch pose with their one-year-old light gray Flemish Giant doe, Josie, which has won prizes for her conformation.

This wall of the Welches' residence is aglow with silver and gold bunnies resting quietly atop the multitude of trophies the Welches' have won in competition in the past five years. Frank Welch will soon be receiving an award for accumulating the most points (8,478) for showing Flemish Giants in the U.S.A. this year.

Five-year-old Faith Welch showing off her trophy she won in competition by showing a Mini lop rabbit like the one shown. The Mini Lops are so named because they are a small rabbit who ears melt into an irresistable lop like this one.

Since they had purchased a buck and a doe caged together, the Welches sat back and waited for their own legendary rabbit population explosion to occur. Nine months later, according to Judie, there were still no little bunnies. Then, by checking with friends who sold rabbits, they learned that a buck and doe must be separated after mating because further matings erase any chances of the female becoming pregnant.

Soon, thereafter, at the urging of friends who owned a rabbitry, the Welches joined the Bald Eagle Rabbit Breeders and Fanciers Club, a local chartered member of the ARBA. Along about this time they bought six rabbits from a pedigreed rabbitry. And the rest, as they say, is history. They began showing their rabbits with much success and purchased pedigreed rabbits from as far away as California and Illinios to complement their bloodlines. They won ribbons at every level of competition from the local fairs to the ARBA sanctioned shows and even in the national show held yearly.

The Welches, who both work full time, are quite enthusiastic about their avocation/hobby. Family vacations are planned with an eye to attending rabbit shows, and if possible the national convention which moves from state to state each year.

"In Ohio at Sea World, after we had left a rabbit show, a guy from a television station came over and taped us with our rabbits with his own VCR tape because he thought it was strange that we took our rabbits along on vacation," Judie recalls with a smile.

"What's nice is that it is a family thing," Frank remarks, thinking over what they like best about their rabbit endeavor.

Five-year-old Faith eagerly displays a Best of Show trophy she won as a three-year-old at the Lycoming County Fair for showing her mini lop namesake, Faith Ann.

Another plus, Frank says, is that they enjoy meeting people and have made so many friends through their common interest in rabbits.

Judie finds a sense of accomplishment in breeding the rabbits. "When I go out to the barn and look at a grand champion that has just delivered a litter of rabbits, it makes me feel like I just went into the nursery and got my first child." she exclaims.

Bunny Facts

Presently, the Welches are raising six varieties of rabbits. For showing, they breed the Flemish Giants which are otherwise known as "the gentle giants", Judie says, becuase of their placid nature. Averaging 18 to 23 pounds, they are the largest of domestic rabbits. The Welches raise them in all seven colors: black, blue, fawn, light gray, sand, slate, and white.

They also breed New Zealand Blacks and New Zealand Whites and the rangy bicolored Checkered Giants as well as the Mini lops for show. The Mini lops with their irresistable lopped ears are sold for pets as well. The sixth variety is the New Zealand Baby Beef, a white pink-eyed variety, which is sold for meat.

"Seventy-five percent of our trophies were won by Lady Ruth," Judie notes.

Lady Ruth, their very first Flemish Giant, was a young sandy-colored doe which they bought and showed in competition. At a prestigious Berks County show she won everything in her class and almost took Best of Show in 1986. But in 1987, her son, Manna, captured the Best of Show at the same important show.

Concerning the meat producing rabbits, Judie reports, when the New Zealand Baby Beefs reach a weight from four to six pounds, they are shipped to New York City to be processed. Some are retruned to local supermarkets where they can be found in the meat department frozen and packaged as domestic hare.

According to Judie, rabbit in local stores sells at around $3.00 per pound. The Welches sell an average of 50 to 75 rabbits per month, which makes about 700 pounds.

Judie says a lot of people, including themselves at first, experience what she call "the fuzzy bunny syndrome" and refuse to eat rabbit meat. But the Welches do butcher rabbits for their own purposes and consider the flavor of the meat delectable.

"Rabbit meat," Judie says, "is high in protein, low in cholesteral, and very easy to digest. It is all white meat and when purchased by the pound there is not a lot of waste since all the bones are hollow."

"Further," she states,"it is recommended for people with cholesteral and heart problems. It is better for people than chicken or fish because it contians no iodine like fish nor fat like corn fed chicken."

Their rabbits receive one cup of dried pellets daily and are given water twice a day, according to Judie. Although they may give them a treat of apple or carrot or steam rolled oats, Judie stresses, they NEVER receive any grass. The grass, she explains, may contain parasites which can kill the rabbits although hay is considered a good source of roughage for the bunnies.

When they first started raising rabbits, Judie recalls, they went to a local feed mill and purchased rabbit feed. After awhile they noticed several of their rabbits were paralyzed in the hind quarters. Consulting with a veterinarian in the ARBA, they found the pellets were too high in protein which accumulates in a rabbit hip the way calcium deposits might in a human being.

Much like the average dairy farmer, the Welches have learned how to give medicine injections to their charges when necessary, but they use home remedies whenever possible. Learning how to care for their own sick animals became necessity because they soon found most area veterinarians possess little experience in rabbit care.

"We've saved a lot of rabbits with comfrey tea and apples," Judie says.

The comfrey tea, an oldtime human remedy for upset stomach also quiets the tummies of rabbits. And if a rabbit goes off its feed for any reason, their first line of attack, Judie reports, is a small slice of apple. For some unknown reason, she says, a rabbit will start nibbling the apple when it will eat nothing else.

When the Welches' rabbit population outgrew the family garage, they built a 20 foot by 60 foot rabbit hutch in tch backyard. Since excessive heat is one of the main banes of rabbit existence, both buildings are equipped with fans to keep the air circulating.

The gestation period for a rabbit is 28 to 30 days, Judie says, and the babies are born bald, deaf, and sightless. They "hair up" in a day and in seven to 10 days their eyes open. They cannot walk until the sixth or seventh day, and then, Judie says, "Watch out!" The does are bred every two months and average 8 to 14 in a litter. When they are born, about five little bunnies can fit into the palm of your hand.

Sometimes in the winter a doe who has given birth refuses to care for her babies. In an attempt to save them, Judie takes the newborns into the house and immerses them in lukewarm water up to their necks to bring their body temperature up to normal or she puts them on a towel and with the careful use of a blow dryer, is able to do the same thing. Many times she is able to save the rabbits.

Losing some rabbits, especially newborns, is a fact of life, but at times can be hard to accept. One evening when a friend came to visit, Judie recalls, they visited the rabbit pens and discovered a litter the mother had rejected. Try as they might, they couldn't save them. Soon her friend began to cry and then so did Faith Ann who had become accustomed to the cycles of life and death.

"It's a fact of life. It happens all the time," Judie remembers telling them. And then she confesses, "The minute they went outside I started crying too."

According to Judie, the ARBA has 35,000 members nationwide with Pennsylvania ranking among the top ten states in rabbit production. Their local club, the Bald Eagle Rabbit Breeders and Fanciers has a membership of 46 families with two to six in a family. Frank is currently serving a term as president of the club and Judie is the secretary/treasurer.

This year on September 5, Labor Day, the Welches' club is holding their annual ARBA sanctioned rabbit show at the Clinton County Fairgounds, Mill Hall, PA, where they expect more than 2,000 rabbits to be exhibited.

On their annual vacation this year the Welches are heading for Madison, Wisconsin, in the middle on November. The big attraction? You guessed it - it's the site of this year's national ARBA convention.

MICROWAVE MINUTES.

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Whether it's fresh corn-on-the-cob, spicy cabbage relish or a light vinegrette potato salad, your microwave can cook them for dinner while the meat grills.

All are cooked using the "rules" of microwave vegetable cookery: cover tightly; stir, rearrange or turn over halfway through cooking; let stand, tightly covered, after microwaving.

Corn-on-the-cob may be microwaved several different ways. (See directions below.) It, especially, needs a tight cover, rearranging, and standing time. Otherwise, there'll be some undone, starchy-tasting spots and some overcooked, shriveled, tough spots.

Allow space between ears for even cooking. Do not salt during cooking or corn will toughen. When done, corn will turn bright yellow throughout. After that, it still needs the few minutes of standing time to become evenly and fully cooked.

Warm Vinegrette Potato Salad calls for cooking most of the dressing ingredients right along with the sliced potatoes. Use your food processor to speed slicing of potatoes and onions, but remember that thinner food processor-cut slices cook faster than thicker hand-cut ones. Again, a tight cover is used. Stirring and standing time are important for even cooking.

The ingredients in Fresh Cabbage Relish are all microwaved together until they're tender-crisp. A tight cover and stirring are still important in this recipe. But, standing time is not as necessary because a slightly crisp texture is desired. Relish may be served warm or refrigerated for later.

Herbed Corn-on-th-Cob

2 tablespoons butter

2 teaspoons chopped chives or parsley

Dash crushed rosemary

4 medium ears fresh sweet corn (about 1 1/2 inches diameter)

Place butter and herbs in microwave-safe 12x8-inch dish. Microwave (High) 30 to 45 seconds to melt butter; set aside. Husk corn and remove silks; place corn in dish, rolling to coat it evenly with butter mixture. Cover tightly with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 6 minutes Turn corn over, re-cover and rotate dish. Continue microwaving (High) 3 to 6 minutes or until corn is bright yellow throughout. Let stand, tightly covered, 5 to 7 minutes before serving. Makes 4 servings.

Hint: Allow 2 to 3 minutes for each medium-size ear (1¼ -1½ inches in diameter) or 3 to 5 minutes for each large ear. Just picked sunshine-warm corn will cook slightly faster.

Wrapped method: Husk corn and remove silks. Wrap each ear individually in a 12-inch sheet of waxed paper, rolling waxed paper around corn and twisting ends tightly. Microwave as above. Combine butter and herbs in small dish; spread on corn before eating.

Husk method: Place corn in microwave. Microwave as above, allowing 30 to 60 seconds more per ear. When done, wrap in foil or leave in microwave for 5 to 7 minutes standing time. Be careful when removing husks. Hold corn with paper towel and pull back leaves carefully to avoid steam, as above. Combine butter and herbs in small dish; spread on corn before eating.

Each serving: 120 calories, 2g protein, 7g fat, 16g carbohydrate, 69mg sodium, 18mg cholesterol.

Warm Vinegrette Potato Salad

4 cups thinly sliced red potatoes (about 4 medium or 1¼ pounds)

1½ small onion, thinly sliced

¼ cup vegetable oil

½ cup water

½ -1 teaspoon salt (optional)

¼ teaspoon pepper

¼ cup herb-flavored or cider vinegar

½ -1 tablespoon chopped fresh herbs

¼ -½ cup chopped fresh parsley

Stir together potatoes, onion, oil, water, salt and pepper in microwave-safe 2-quart casserole. Cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 9 to 11 minutes, stirring once, or until potatoes are tender. Stir in herbs and parsley. Season to taste. Serve warm or cool. Makes 4 large servings.

Each serving: 208 calories, 3g protein, 14g fat, 20g carbohydrate, 255mg sodium, 0mg cholesterol.

Hint: Use any fresh herbs, such as chives, marjoram or thyme. You may substitute ½ to 1 teaspoon dried herbs for fresh. If so, microwave them along with other ingredients. Do not substitute dried parsley for the fresh parsley.

Fresh Cabbage Relish

2 cups thinly sliced cabbage (about ½ small head)

¼ cup chopped green and/or red bell pepper

2 tablespoons chopped onion

¼ cup vinegar

¼ cup granulated sugar

¼ teaspoon dry mustard

¼ teaspoon celery seed

½ teaspoon salt (optional)

Stir all ingredients together in microwave-safe 1-quart casserole. Cover with plastic wrap or tight lid. Microwave (High) 2 to 4 minutes, stirring once, or until cabbage is tender-crisp. Serve warm or cold as a vegetable or relish. Store in refrigerator up to one week. Makes 2 cups.

Each ½ -cup serving: 59 calories, 0g protein, 0g fat, 16g carbohydrate, 21mg sodium, 0mg cholesterol.

Hint: This is very good with red cabbage.

Hay Creek Festival

A weekend 200 years old! That describes the 13th Annual Hay Creek Fall Festival, which opens here on Friday, September 9, and continues through September 11 at historic Joanna Furnace.

Since early spring, more than 1,000 participants have been busy completing quilts and early-American reproductions, organizing musical presentations, polishing up their gas and steam engines, doing archaeology and restoration work on the Joanna Furnace site, chopping fire wood for the open-fire cooking, and adding some "this and thats" to the unique Hay Creek bill of fare.

The 28-acre site is divided into several distinct theme areas with the 200-year-old iron furnace complex as the focal point.

The early-American crafts area consists of one of the largest concentrations of early-American craftsmen in southeastern Pennsylvania. Hay Creek Craftsmen are renowned for quality and authenticity.

The Hay Creek enginemen display hundreds of old-time gas and steam engines. Numerous contemporary craftsmen and antique dealers will display their wares. Interpreters paint a portrait of the furnace and the associated early-American iron plantation life style.

The main goals of HCV are to research, restore, and reconstruct the historically significant iron complex, which operated from 1792 to 1897. HCV is a non-profit organization whose members donate their time and efforts to complete the restoration project.

The Hay Creek Fall Festival is held annually on the first weekend after Labor Day. Admission to the festival is $5, children 12 and under are free. All visitors will park at the Manufacturers' Outlet Mall at the intersection of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and Route 10 in Morgantown. Free shuttle buses will take visitors directly to and from the festival site.

For a brochure on the festival, write to HCV Fall Festival, Box 36N, Geigertown, PA 19523 or call 215/286-0388.

Rabbit meat? Have you tried it? Don't fall for the "fuzzy bunny syndrome," and miss healthy eating, warns Judie Welch. She said, rabbit meat is high in protein, low in cholesterol and easy to digest.

To learn more about rabbits read the article "Bunny Facts From Hoppin Haven" on page B2. This is one of Judie Welch's favorite recipes that she makes by the gallon to serve to their local rabbit club.

Rabbit Stew
(Serves 10 people)

8 pounds rabbit meat
2 pounds carrots
2 pounds corn
2 pounds peas
5 pounds potatoes cut small
Salt and pepper to taste
Arrowroot

Precook the rabbit and debone it. Put the meat back into the broth. Add the vegetables and salt and pepper to taste. Do not salt the rabbit while precooking it. Simmer the vegetable and meat until soft. Then make a paste with the arrowroot to thicken the stew to the desired consistency. Serve piping hot.

Kid's Korner

Welcome Home, Maria

LEBANON — Do you like to hear stories that tell about you being a baby? Your mother or father probably have told you some stories.

Recently, I met Maria Hoover, a three-year-old girl who lives with her mother and daddy, Mary Ann and Dean Hoover, who farm in Lebanon County. Maria has an unusual story that her mother printed on laminated cardboard pages. It's illustrated by Maria's aunt, Charlotte Hoover.

Since you can not buy a copy of the book, I asked permission to reprint it. Her story is probably very different from yours. Maria was born in Korea and adopted bu Dean and Mary Ann Hoover.

Many happy hours are spent reading Maria's own special book that tells about her.

Maria helping her daddy in the barn.

Remember the story is written like it is being told to Maria. Read it and then asked your parents to tell a story about your birth.

Welcome Home, Maria

One day two happy people who were husband and wife decided their family could be happier if they had a baby. So they prayed to Jesus and asked Him to send a special baby girl who was born many miles away in a country called Korea. They waited many days and weeks until finally a baby girl was born who was just right for them. That baby girl was you!

You were a special baby because you had a father and a mother in Korea who gave you life, and now a new father and mother who will give you a family, a home, and lots of love.

One spring evening a big airplane came to Philadelphia Airport. A kind, loving lady carried you off of the airplane and put you into your mother's arms.

The next day your grandmas and many aunts, uncles, cousins and friends came to see you and show you their love.

One day when you were about ten months old, your mother and father answered some questions in front of a judge. Now you were adopted forever!

Your father and mother love you and want to take care of you. We will have much happiness together.

Welcome Home, Maria.

"I like to play with play dough and paint," Maria says.

This poster greeted Maria on her first night home. Here, she is three-months-old when Dean and Mary Ann Hoover brought her to their Lebanon home.

The big day when Maria was officially adopted. Here the judge holds her while her mommy and daddy beam with happiness.

It's bicycling time!

Maria likes to play with balloons and friends.

We Want To Hear From You

September 13 is National Grandparents Day. To celebrate we want you to write and tell us about your grandma or grandpa. Maybe you call them Pop-Pop or Gram. Whatever you call them, you're sure to have lots of fun together.

Tell us why you like them. What do you do with them? Do you like to visit them? Make sure you include your grandpa's or grandma's name and your own name, address and age. Mail your replies to Kids' Korner, Lancaster Farming," P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. Deadline is September 5.

Remember, you can write and tell us about your pet or yourself anytime you'd like. Send your letters to the address listed above.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Let's get something straight here, right from the beginning. Okay? I am not a fisherman.

Oh sure, on occasion, I've dangled a line baited with some slimy, squirmy something in the water. Matter of fact, when the kids were little and pleaded to fish the pond, I even baited hooks with worms. I'm not even prone to seasickness, probably due to exposure, during my formative years, to roller coasters. But I'm not what you'd call a real fisherman.

Maybe my path just never crossed with the right conditions. But my limited fishing experience mainly reconfirmed a long-time belief: you can purchase a fairly adequate volume of already-cleaned fresh and frozen fish for what many fishing expeditions and related gear tally up to in cold cash.

Still, when the farmers, younger and older (big and little are no longer appropriate descriptions), announced they were headed to Indian River Inlet to fish from the rocks, I allowed that maybe I'd join them for an hour or two. Fishing - or at least drowning bait - is a favorite passtime of these two on our occasional visits to the Delaware seashore.

Fishing was not my purpose. I'd never been out on the Inlet's rock barrier. Here, the waters of the Atlantic gush through a small opening in the coast at high tide to fill the Indian River Bay. At low tide, billions of gallons of salty sea rush back out. Daily, boats chug through the roiling waters in an ongoing watery parade. A Mecca for fishing enthusiasts, this fragile point also draws campers, beach bathers and spectators. I would readily take my place among the latter.

Good thing I took along a book. Mist hung over the inlet so thickly in the damp, early morning that it was impossible to see more than a hundred yards away. No boats moving. No Parade to watch. Only a few die-hard fisherman, armed with rubber waders, boots, metal footgear for the farthest, slippery rocks which project into the ocean and protect the narrow shore at this narrow, fragile sliver of coastal dunes.

Then, the mist lifted and the sun sparkled on churning waves. Crabs hid in pools between the giant rocks. Boats skittered past, hopping the tops of the choppy waves where the incoming and outgoing waters meet and clash.

So invigorating and fascinating was the combination of wind and waves and acivitiy that I returned that evening, with the Farmer.

"I'm going to fish," I announced, since his fishing buddy had left earlier.

Armed with surf rods, tackle box, colorful floats, wispy bucktails, slimy squid and thawed mullet for rigging and bait, we carefully picked our way over the narrow rock barrier. A dozen or more others, many decked out in all the appropriate garb and gear for serious fishing at such a prime location, concentrated on casting bait to the sea.

No one seemed to be reeling in anything but their soggy, sometimes chewed, bait. At least the crabs were getting fed.

Hoping no one noticed one greenhorn female, imitation fisherman, I cast with the long rod and spider-web of rigging. I would never win a casting contest, but at least the yellow and red floats cleared the rocks. Seeing how far I could cast became a challenge. (And no doubt a source of amusement on a slow evening to the real fishermen on the rocks.)

The tug on the line was not at all expected. Though I know he doubted my sudden "I got a hit," still the Farmer gave the rod a backwards shove to set the hook. Just in case it wasn't just my imagination or a rough spot on the bottom.

But the curvature of the rod tip and steady resistance to the reel hinted otherwise. The glistening shape of the 13-inch bluefish broke the waves about the same time the grin broke across my face.

I resisted an impulse to jump up and down in full view of the dozen or so devoted, vetern, well-equipped real fishermen.

Now, this fish-story is related merely to reinforce what we sometimes forget; no matter how much we study, prepare, plan, or worry ourselves about something, sheer "dumb" luck sometimes determines the taker of the spoils.

I am not a fisherman.

But, I am a cook. And, it was delicious, thank you.

Solanco Fair

The Community Fair Directors announce the opening of the 39th Southern Lancaster County Community Fair on Wednesday, September 14. The fair continues through the 16th at the fairgrounds in Quarryville.

There will be two divisions: 14 & under and 15 to 19 years old. Friday's main events are the tractor driving contest at 10:00 a.m. and the market hog and steer sale at 6:00 p.m.

How To Be Safe At Home

While most people have legitimate reasons for calling at your door or on the telephone, robbery or assault could be the motive. For example, a phone call could be an attempt to determine your sex and whether you are at home.

While danger may be remote, don't take chances. An important first step is to install a peephole in your door if you don't already have one. Remind yourself, also, that legitimate callers will respect your suspicious, preventive attitude as you take the following steps to protect yourself.

1. Do not automatically open the door when someone knocks. If you see any stranger (even one in a familiar uniform or who looks clean cut), ask that the caller to slide identification and credentials under the door or through the mail slot. Every legitimate caller should have a badge or card. If not, ask for his driver's license. Then check him out by calling the agency he represents, as he waits.

2. If a caller wants to use your phone to request help or make an emergency call, ask for the message and make the call yourself.

3. Draw your blinds or drapes at night. If you see or hear a prowler, or if you are suspicious of someone who comes to the door, call the police at once.

4. Try to have someone with you if you use an apartment-house laundry room at night. Similarly, don't enter an elevator with a stranger.

5 Don't allow someone to force you to respond on the phone. If someone calls asking "Who is this?", respond by saying "Whom are you calling?"

6. Avoid conversations with a person taking a "survey" or the census, in which you reveal your name, marital status, or other personal information.

7. Hang up on obscene phone calls.

8. If you get frequent calls of the following types: wrong number, hang-up calls, calls from strangers late at night, call the police and ask their advice.

9. Report any property damage, break-in, or other crime, no matter how in-significant it may seem.

Home Economics Fashioned This Woman's Career

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER — While back-to-school students stagger schedules with extra-curricular activities and studies, home economics is one subject that is liable to be dropped. According to recent trends, interest in sewing is on a downward spiral.

And that trend is one that Tamara Stermer Rue of Lancaster disapproves. She said, "Home economics helped me get where I am today."

And where Tammy Rue is today is in the highly competitive field of fashion design. She designs sportswear for The Leoniak Look*, a contemporary woman's clothing line that sells sweaters, coordinates and dresses, in fashionable boutiques and specialty stores nationwide.

Pat Leoniak, the designer who founded the Leoniak Look, said, "Tammy's great at designing. Few people can sketch and design their own patterns."

One-of-a-kind wedding gown and bridesmaids' dresses were designed by Tammy for her own wedding. Here she and Matron of Honor Victoria Macolll modeled the creations fashioned after the 1920s styles.

Barbara Shenk, a home economist at Hempfield High School, was the major force encouraging Tammy as a student." Tammy, who has a natural talent in clothing and fashion, recalls, "Mrs. Shenk taught me a lot about designing and fashion. I always enjoyed working with colors, and coordinating and accessorizing outfits."

Tammy started sewing in the sixth grade. Not long after that she began to improvise patterns to create her own look. In eighth grade she placed third in a sewing contest sponsored by a national teen magazine. In senior high she placed first in a local farm show sewing competition and second in the state. She also placed both first and second in tailoring contests sponsored by the Lancaster Women's Club. "Barb Shenk was really an inspiration to me. She recognized my talent and interest and encouraged me to look for a college that offered design."

Tammy chose Drexel University. She found the studies demanding. There was a large number of dropouts. She said, "I think they intentionally made it tough, because it's even tougher in the working world to survive. It's an extremely competitive field."

Students' sketches and projects were critiqued by the instructor and classmates. Usually students were required to submit ten sketches with suitable fabric swatches attached. After the instructor selected one sketch, the student worked on making either a flat pattern or a draped muslin one and then stitched the original. Patterns needed to be made in the standard size eight or ten so the models could wear them. Tammy said, "It's an expensive course because we needed to purchase our own fabric for all our projects and make them for models, not ourselves."

Classes in home economics proved to be a plus for Tammy when she attended Drexel. Many of the students did not have a background in sewing. Tammy recalls, "Having tailoring skills really helped."

Besides sewing skills, an art background is helpful for designers. "You must be able to get your ideas across on paper. A drawing course that teaches basic figure drawing with proportions with some sewing ability is beneficial." Tammy admits she finds the sewing part easier than drawing, but it's no problem getting my ideas on paper, " she said.

Seeing her completed projects modeled on stage was the most rewarding aspect for Tammy while attending Drexel, "but it was tough to finish all projects in the specified time frame."

Tammy considers herself fortunate to have landed a job designing since there are not many designer positions. She said most graduates of the course need to begin their career as pattern makers or assistant designers working on specifications. To fuel creativity when feeling unmotivated, Tammy finds flipping through fashion magazines or looking at fabric causes ideas to start flowing.

Tammy doesn't limit her talents to a 9 to 5 job. Recently she designed all the gowns for her bridal party. The gowns imitated the 1920s fashions featuring dropped waists, dolman sleeves, uneven hemlines and hand appliqued shoulders, hips and cuffs.

Her wedding has sparked a creative urge within her to design one-of-a-kind wedding gowns. She said, "But I couldn't use sales reps or anything. I'd probably need to sell out of a shop where people would come in with ideas and I'd make them or I'd design my own ideas."

Tammy Rue, a fashion designer, got a headstart in her career by taking home economic courses. Both the dress on the rack and the outfit she is wearing is one of Tammy's original designs.

For now, Tammy finds it exciting to work for a company that has grown from two sewers to more than 40, with five sales representatives who promote Leoniak designs nationwide. Tammy and founder, Pat Leoniak, who continues to design sweater outfits, select fabrics and work with sketches and ideas. Pat said, "It's difficult to find people who can design and make their own patterns." She regrets that fewer students are taking sewing courses. She said, "It was in a home economics class at Hempfield that Tammy first heard about me." Pat had spoken about career opportunities in fashions; years later, when Tammy graduated and was job searching, she remembered that home economics class and looked up Pat Leoniak.

*The Leoniak Look was created by Lancaster's nationally known fashion designer, Pat Leoniak. Her clothing, which bears her name, is sold from Los Angeles to New York, from Miami to Palm Springs. Leoniak sweaters, sportswear and dresses have been selling in fashionable boutiques and specialty stores including Bloomingdales, Elizabeth Arden, Lord & Taylor, Bendels, and Ann Taylor. Their Lancaster store is located at 1401 Oregon Pike, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Sam and Kathy Doak with their son Sammy are now farming in Bernville. They found the federally-funded Migrant Education Program of tremendous help to their children when they moved to several different locations.

Agricultural Families On The Move Find Help For Their Children

BY LOU ANN GOOD

BERNVILLE (Berks) — Sam Doak is a herdsman. When he and his family moved from Montgomery to Tioga and later to Berks County, the children needed to adjust to new school districts.

His wife Kathy recalls, "In Montgomery County Sammy was in first grade where he was just learning the alphabet, but Tioga County first graders were already sounding out words. Sammy was lost."

Many families who move can identify with the stress their children face as they adjust to different school programs. For those families who move because their parent or guardian is employed in agriculture work, a government program offers tutorial help. The federally-funded Migrant Education Program assists children with their home work and with areas of difficulty.

Kathy said, "When a recruit first mentioned this to us, we were apalled. My husband said, "We're not migrants." The Doaks thought migrants referred to people who come from other countries and travel from state to state to pick fruit or vegetables.

They found out that those people are only a small percentage. The federal program defines migrants as any family who moves for agricultural-related purposes. Examples of agricultural employment include work in mushroom houses, greenhouses, nurseries, seed factories, dairy farms, vineyards, picking fruit or vegetables, planting or pruning, processing of poultry, beef or vegetables. There are also many transiet people among agriculture hired hands, herdsmen and tenant farmers.

And when they move and take heir student-aged children with hem, it's a whole different school o adjust to. The adjustments often eave children floundering in school work. To meet this deficit, the government legislated help. In Lancaster, Gary Johnson oversees the program.

He said, "The need is not based on economics but on child need." It does not matter how much income a family makes, if the family has moved within the past six years for agriculture employment their children are eligible for the program. However, the program puts priority on those who moved within the last year.

Instructors use non-traditional methods to spark students interest in education. For example an instructor may use a field trip to encourage using oral launguage skills, learned mathmatics, reading and writing.

This year, for the first time, computers will be placed in many of the homes of children who have moved because their parents took ag related jobs. Children from kindergarten through ninth grade will have a library of software to choose from. Depending on the child's needs, programs building certain skills will be emphasized. Administrators of the program hope computers will spark parents' interest in helping their children.

A new service is being provided in the Lancaster area by Millersville University students who will mann a homework hotline. Children involved in the program can call for help with their homework. Those who answer the phones will have access to the same books that the student has.

Most instructors for the Lancaster program are bilingual since many eligible children in the area are Spanish speaking and have a deficit in speaking English.

After accessing a child's needs, if the child needs more than what the local school program provides, teachers will meet with children one hour after school from one to five times weekly depending upon the need. Summertime tutorials are also available.

Part of the purpose of the program is designed to help students become more educated to attain so they can get higher paid jobs. Johnson reports that several of their students have continued their education after high school by entering Millersville University. College funds are not available through the migrant program but through programs such as Upward Bound.

Johnson said, "We staff up to 75 people annually and help an average 350 pupils in the four county district." Currently there are 1,100 identified as migrant students but not all need additional help in adjusting.

Often hispanic homes do not spend as muc' time reading with their children since the p rents can not read English; yet, they want their children to learn English so they do not read to them in Spanish. Statistics estimate that 23 to 27 million adults are illiterate. Educators believe that children who see their parents reading will make a better reader. To foster reading development the program experiments with doing unusual projects. Last year, they developed a big book with letters and picturing. That generated a lot of enthusiasm.

Migrant parents are hard workers like other farmers. But they run into many difficulties such as the crop not being ready for harvesting and weather difficulties and, in order to work, some must travel from harvest to harvest. Johnson said, "It's a respectful industry and should be held in respect. The U.S. economy depends upon hardy manual labor workers to keep food costs down."

In the mid '60s, studies showed that many families moved as many as ten times a year for agricultural work. Students of these families are enrolled into the Migrant Student Record Transfer System, a computerized nationwide service that maintains and transmits current educational and health information on some 600,000 migrant children. Rapid access to educational and health data prevents costly duplication of services and when the child moves all the necessary information is available at the new school.

The Doaks found the program extremely effective in helping their three children adjust. Kathy said, "In the beginning we were ashamed to say we were part of the migrant program, but we learned more about it and when we saw how much it helped our kids, we were very proud to be in the program."

Kathy was so impressed with the program that she later became a recruiter. Her ability to relate to agriculture migrants enabled her to be extremely effective. She said, "I really enjoyed it, but after one and a half years, I found it took to much time away from my family to keep working fulltime." But it's a program that has proved beneficial and for that reason she encourages those who think that might be eligible to apply.

If you or someone you know qualifies for this program, call 717 872-3458 or write to the PA Migrant Education Program, 1315 Walnut Street, Suite 98; Philadelphia, PA 19107.

Lancaster County 4-H'ers Shine At Achievement Night

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — The high point of Stacey Goss's Saturday night last week was when she was named outstanding 4-H'er for 1989 during the Lancaster County 4-H Achievement Night held at the Farm & Home Center.

Stacey, 17, remarked during a presentation given before peers and parents, that without 4-H she would have become a couch potato content to sprawl before the television and idle away her life.

Instead, the Pequea teen belongs to the Penn Willow Community Club and has been active in everything from cooking to air pistol marksmanship. For more on Stacey, see the related artical in this section.

Amy Jo Strasbaugh, outgoing Outstanding 4-H'er, relinquished her duties Saturday night, which also happened to be her birthday. Amy Jo advised Stacey to get ready for a busy year as Zoann Parker, the county 4-H agent, would keep her calendar full.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by seven 4-H'ers who competed in the county-wide talent contest. Kandi Mullen from the Solanco Community Club stirred judges Carol Borry and Vicki LeFever with her animated rendition of "Casey At The Bat," and was named winner of the contest.

Taking second place was a duet performed by Matt Rush of the Woolies Club and Heidi Frey of the Red Rose Beef Club. The two sang "Worlds Apart." In third place was Heather Ranck from the Pequea Valley 4-H Club. Heather performed a monologue, "What It Was, Was Football," an act first performed by actor Andy Griffith.

Four-H'ers who had excelled within their clubs and at their projects were named to the Honor Roll. This year's honorees were Kerry Freese of Nottingham, Frank Bentrem of Elizabethtown, Heather Haldeman of Manheim, and Angie Spickler of Mount Joy in the senior division. Members of the junior division were Carolyn Nestleroth of Manheim, Susan Bentrem of Elizabethtown, Beth Spickler of Mount Joy, and Sharon LeFever of Quarryville.

Scholarship winners also were named during the evening. This year's winners are Jeff Craig, Amy Jo Strasbaugh, Sheldon Heisey, Nanette Bushong, and Stacy Nestleroth.

There were 20 entries in this year's poster contest in the two divisions. Stacey Goss took first place in the senior division with her entry, which depicted Calvin and Hobbes, characters from the popular cartoon. Other placings were Vicki Creighton, second; Andy Allen, third; Kim Kettering, fourth; and Lavonne Lehman, fifth; in the senior division. In the junior division Emily Zug was first; Amy Siegrist, second; Heather Buller, third; Joy Hess, fourth; and Pam Lehman, fifth.

Other 4-H'ers who were recognized include the Gold Ribbon project winners; the 4-H fair's omelet contest winners: Saranna Miller in first place followed by Starr Waltz and Bob Creighton; John Hess, county public speaking winner; Club exhibit winners: Seeing Eye Puppy Club in first followed by the Boots & Saddle Club and Horsin' Around Club; the Swine Club for its volleyball victory; the Horsin' Around and Boots & Saddles clubs for their scrapbooks; Chad Eberly, Appalachian Audobon Society Award winner; Sheldon Heisey, grand champion showman overall at the 4-H fair; Greg Shipe, reserve grand champion showman overall; baby blue form winners: Kim Kettering, Jami Krause, Eric Wenger, Lori Loeffler, Paula Loeffler, Marsha Dehmey; blue form winners: Marsha Dehmey, Stacy Nestleroth, and Kevin Mease.

This year's Outstanding 4-H'er, Amy Jo Strasbaugh, passed on her title and its duties to Stacey Goss of Pequea, right.

Recognized for their successes, these four junior 4-H'ers were named to the Honor Roll. From left, Beth Spickler, Sharon LeFever, Carolyn Nestleroth, and Susan Bentrem.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

This month means school days for many families and so I decided to read my diary of some thirty years ago when we sent our first child to school. If I hadn't written everyday, I wouldn't be able to relive the good and the bad times that we had here on the farm.

Our oldest daughter gleefully skipped off to school without a backward glance while I tearfully watched. The almost four year old was left to fend for himself but he wasn't happy. He missed his sister but kept busy feeding the pigs, pulling weeds and pushing the lawnmower. And, my ten month old had just learned to walk and took a lot of watching as he went to the barn every chance he got. He often fell when he walked on our uneven lawn.

One thing that I realize by rereading my diary is that I've learned not to plant so much. We were picking a bushel of cucumbers every other day and three bushel of lima beans at a time. One day I canned seventeen quart of grape juice and another day twenty-four quart of beans. With milkers to wash and children to watch, I'm not sure how I did it. No wonder that I did the ironing when everyone else was in bed.

My husband was busy putting away tobacco which we no longer grow. And, he had the silo to fill too.

There were two figures mentioned that surprised me. One was the fact that we were paying $1.50 per basket for the peaches that I canned. Another was the weight of a hog that we sold to a neighbor--he tipped the scales at 540 pounds. Now that is a hog.

Some things never change. I wrote about the heifer that swam the Conestoga and had to be brought back. Last week my husband and our Amish neighbor worked to get another heifer out of the mud along the bank on the opposite side of the Conestoga River.

Benefit Sale Held For Amish Family

LANCASTER — The benefit sale for the Amish family injured by an intoxicated, hit-run driver is being held today. The Esh family from Atglen are faced with astronomical hospital bills from the June 27th accident that left 38-year-old Joseph Esh paralyzed from the neck down. His pregnant wife, Barbara, lost the baby she was carrying and four of their five children were seriously injured.

To help meet the spiraling medical costs, the community organized a benefit sale that starts at 8 a.m. and is scheduled to run to 6 p.m. The sale site is located on Route 23 across from the Atlantic gas station on a farm two miles west of New Holland.

For more information, contact the Beiler Benefit Fund, 101 Amishtown Road, New Holland, PA 17557, or phone 717 354-6066.

Children's Parties-
A Piece of Cake!

One of the wonderful things about having children is that you can relive childhood again. It is the chance to share laughter, wonder, joy and fun of childhood all over again with your child. These thoughts as well as the reflections of one year ago were on this mother's sentimental mind as we celebrated the occasion of Elise's first birthday.

Before the big event, I did do a little researching. After all, this was our first birthday party to plan for! I discovered that for children, most of the year revolves around the occasion of their birthday." or "My birthday is near Christmas." Birthdays are a celebration of the child's personal new year. Most importantly, a child's birthday is an opportunity for parents to share this special time together with their child.

The highlights of the year often revolve around celebrations from birthdays, holidays and all occasions in between. As adults, many of our fondest memories are festive gatherings with our friends. No matter how much time or energy and money is invested in a celebration, planning is the key to success. Here are a few party fundamentals, especially for the preschool and primary age children.

* Let children help in planning and encourage them to act as hostess or host.

* Set a reasonable time limit. Except for the very young, two to two and one-half hours is an average.

* To eliminate post party blues, invite one special friend to stay all day.

* Extra supervision or help comes in handy. Parents, babysitters, older siblings or relatives are great. So that a sibling does not feel left out, allow them to invite one friend and have them join in the events or act as your assistants. By the age of four, it is best to limit the number of adults so that the party child is truly the center of attention.

* Assign a neighbor, relative or friend to be in charge of picture taking or the video camera.

You are the best judge of what is appropriate for your child's age, but these suggestions may be helpful. Toddlers can be upset by too many unfamiliar faces. Three to four guest, are ideal and you should limit the party to two hours. Toddlers are too young for games but will enjoy toys and records. Preschoolers enjoy some simple planned activities. Games and craft projects as well as eating are also a highlight at this age. A rule of thumb for the appropriate number of guests is one guest for each year of age.

By the primary grades, children are ready for supervised games. If possible, burn off excess energy with outdoor games and have lots of planned activities to keep everyone busy.

We certainly blew some of the rules for Elise's party. We were excited to share this occasion with all of our family and a few close friends. But realistically, the first year party was largely for mom and dad and the photos and video tape for Elise's memory book.

Regardless of the food, games or decorations that you plan for your next celebration, relax and allow yourself to be caught up in a party spirit and become a child at heart. By doing so, you will share in the excitement of special celebrations that will make for a lifetime of happy memories. If time continues to pass this quickly, it will soon be time to plan for birthday #2!

Under the SUN

The miracles of natural products, combined with technology, promise a more profitable future for farmers.

MIRACLE FEEDS, Inc., Your "By-Products Specialists", combines the miracle of nature with today's technology to bring you greater profits. One option is Wet Brewers Grains.

WHAT ARE WET BREWERS GRAINS? In the brewing of beer, only the highest quality barley and other cereal grains are used. Wet brewers grains are the portion of the grains that remain following the extraction of carbohydrates that takes place in the brewing process. They provide protein, fat and energy as well as essential minerals — while lowering your feed cost.

For FREE information about The Miracle Feeds Program write or call the office listed below. We'll do everything "Under the Sun" to help your feeding program.

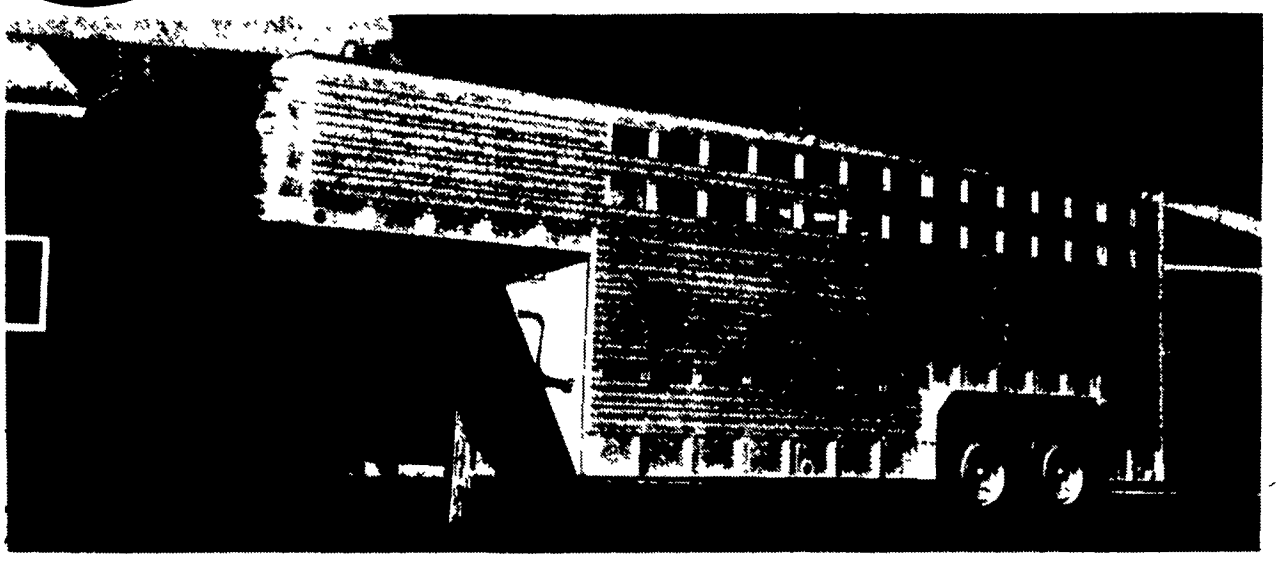
ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS



20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

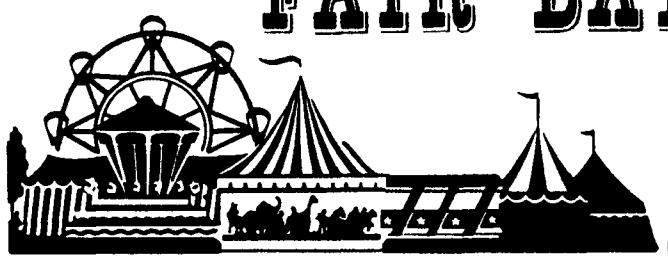
FAIR DAYS



New England's Great State Fair

The Big E, "New England's Great State Fair," in West Springfield, Mass., may have the appearance of a large entertainment event, but its roots are in agriculture.

In 1916, The Big E, at that time know as the Eastern States Agricultural and Industrial Exposition, opened its gates for the first time. The fair that year represented a chance for New Englanders to view the finest livestock and machinery of the era and hear new ideas about farming. The main attraction that year was the National Dairy Show.

The following year the Eastern States Exposition and Dairy Show featured the first national vegetable show, horticulture and fruit exhibits, and added sheep, swine, beef cattle, and ponies to its list of livestock exhibits. And as the 1917 program stated, "there will be just enough and not too much entertainment to provide a properly balanced ration with the more serious educational features."

The Big E, now in its 67th year, continues to provide an educational experience for hundreds of thousands of city folk, while, to the agricultural community it is known as the Showcase of the East, with numerous opportunities to exhibit their best livestock and products.

Other events include the handmade woolen articles competition, fleece judging, a fleece-to-fabric contest, shearing contests, and a spinning bee. The working steer contest, a timed event in which youths maneuever their hitched animals around various obstacles, is another popular event. The jackpot steer contest rounds off the competitive action.

The Dairy Education Center in the Young Building will feature cow-milking demonstrations and information on how milk gets from the cow to the carton. If the more basic grunt and grind of pulling events appeals to you, come see some of the finest pulling teams of oxen, horses and ponies in the Northeast that will be featured in competition during the fair.

Non-livestock events include a produce show featuring giant pumpkin and squash contests. A glimpse of Christmas comes to the fair with the popular Northeast region Christmas tree and wreath exhibit. The trees and wreaths will be judged and left on display during the 12-day fair.

The 1988 Big E takes place September 14 through 25 in West Springfield, Mass.

York County Fair

By Joyce Bupp
York Co. Correspondent

Hundreds of livestock entries, pumpkins galore, a six-hitch team of matched Percherons, two pie bake-offs, and a jumping combine are just a few of the agricultureal highlights lined up for the 223rd annual York Fair.

The oldest such event in the nation, the York Fair opens next week, running from Friday, September 9, through Saturday, September 17. York's own agricultural exposition was established under a charter signed by Thomas Penn, son of William Penn. That first York Fair was held in 1765, 11 years before the nation's birth.

Livestock competition at the Fair has established a reputation of showcasing outstanding breeding stock from York County and surrounding areas. Showring action gets underway on Friday with 4-H and FFA beef and sheep classes, plus open classes for dairy goats.

Beef and sheep youth and open class competition runs through Monday, September 12, culminatingh at 7:30 p.m. with the naming of the supreme champion ewe and ram.

Dairy and swine arrive on Tuesday with youth and open class activities following Wednesday through Saturday. The supreme dairy champion will be selected at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday. The swine events include two sales: the FFA sale at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, and a breeding and market hog sale at noon on Saturday.

Special youth livestock contests include beef showmanship and fitting, sheep and calf decorating, commodity dress-up, and a hog-driving competition.

A "pumpkin extravaganza" headlines events at the newly renovated Horticulture Hall. Rutters Corp. and Agway teamed with the fair to sponsor this contest for preschool through fifth-grade students.

While entrants are not required to have grown their pumpkin entry, some 25,000 students were eligible earlier this year to receive free pumpkin seeds in preparation for the event. Judging divisions are by grade in three categories: most perfect specimen of the Jack-O-Lantern type pumpkin, a pumkin face painting and decoration of Jack-O-Lantern type, and a decoration class for neck-tie pumpkins. No carving of pumpkins is allowed.

Pumkins may be entered at the Horticultural Hall on September 6 and 7, 1:00 p.m. through 10:00 p.m. or on September 8 and 9, 9:00 a.m. through 6:00 p.m.

A pumpkin pie will be worth $100 and an apple worth $45 in the two pie bake-offs, which will feature these Pennsylvania products. Those are the top cash prizes, sponsored by Washington House and Hammilton Bank, for champion pies. The baker of the winning apple pie also earns the chance to compete at the state level during the 1989 Farm Show. No age limits are set for the contests; entries must be brought to the fair September 8 between 9:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

A team of matched, black Percheron draft horses became a sort of trademark in the 1800s for the H.J. Heinz company of Pittsburgh. Those teams hauled wooden wagons of the company's "57 varieties" of processed foodstuffs.

The Heinz Hitch, with its reproduction wagon and matched team, has added the York Fair to its public appearance circuit this season. From September 9 through 14, the team will be stabled at the fairground's equine facilities, and make daily appearances over the grounds.

Also new to the York Fair is a "jumping combine". Powered by a 1,450-horsepower engine, the Silver Bullet combine reaches speeds of up to 50 mph as it roars up a ramp and over a sports car.

"Most of the time it makes it," according to owner-operator, Ernie Brookins, who custom built the machine in 1985.

For additional information on these and other York Fair activities, call the York Fair at 717/848-2596.

Oley Fair

What jumps, hurdles, and runs 140 feet in five seconds, all for a vanilla wafer cookie? How about "Belly Buster III", "Cool Hand Lucille", and "Go Cat Go". Now this track team may not be fast enough to compete in the upcoming Summer Olympics in Seoul, but they are some of the favorites from the International World of Swine Speedsters, the official pig-racing team of the 5-H Ranch from Cape Girardeau, Mo.

According to Dave Hale, owner of the 5-H Ranch and who is bringing his hogs to the 42nd Annual Oley Valley Community Fair in Oley on September 15 to 17, "Pig racing is becoming one of the nation's fastest-growing spectator sports."

The 5-H Ranch pig-racing team will head to the starting line 21 times each day as part of seven shows, each featuring three pig heats. Now these are not just your normal pigs, though White Yorkshires and other domestic pigs have the priviledge to run for the roses, this pig-racing team also includes exotic breeds such as the Asian Potbelly and the Mexican Hairless.

This is the debut appearance of the International World of Swine Speedsters in Pennsylvania, and they are part of nine traveling units that race everywhere from Maine to Disneyland.

Hale, who has been training the pigs to race for nearly two years, says that he has seen probably 10,000 races by his pigs, and still every race is different.

Some of the races feature the pigs jumping over 6- to 8-inch hurdles as they race to the finish line, where the pan of vanilla wafers awaits. The pigs are introduced by name, dressed in silks, and lined up in the starting gates. The winner receives his award in the special pig paddock, decorated with roses.

There is no gate admission to the fair, which also features musical entertainment including Marty Haggard, Stella Parton, and John Bressler; the Oley High School Band; roving appearances by Sally Star; and the Happy Dutchman Band.

Thurmont, Emmitsburg Community Show

This year marks the 32nd anniversary of the Thurmont and Emmitsburg Community Show, scheduled for Friday through Sunday, September 9 through 11, at the Catoctin High School.

More than 2,500 farm and garden, household, quilt, livestock, machinery, and commercial displays can be seen during the three-day event.

Each year the Community Show honors an organization for its contributions to community life. This year the show will be honoring the 50th anniversary of the Brotherhood of the Junglecock.

The show opens Friday at 6:00 p.m. to the public. At 7:45 p.m. the Catoctin High School Band will render several selections in the auditorium followed by the massing of flags by community civic organizations. Special recognition will be given to the Brotherhood of the Junglecock at this time. The highlight of the program will be the announcement of the 1988-89 Catoctin FFA Chapter Sweetheart by Frank L. Bentz, the chairman of the 50th anniversary.

Following the program at 9:00 p.m., an auction of all baked goods exhibited at the show will be held in the auditorium.

Saturday's activities include a pet show beginning at 10:30 a.m. and a beef, sheep, and swine fitting and showing from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Thurmont Grange will serve a family-style turkey and ham supper in the school cafeteria from 3:00 to 7:00 p.m.

Machinery will be displayed throughout the event and there will be music provided by Catoctin (formerly the Catoctin Mountin Boys) from 6:00 to 10:00 p.m. They will present their Elvis show at 9:00 p.m.

The Catoctin Area FFA Alumni beef, sheep, and swine sale will be held in the Ag Center Area at 7:00 p.m.

On Sunday, September 11, the show opens at noon with a chicken barbeque serve by the Catoctin FFA Alumni.

"Dash for Mash" pig, duck, and goat races will be held at 1:00, 2:00, 3:00, and 4:00 p.m. by Merle Mills, a Montgomery County farmer.

The Catoctin Mountain Horseshoe Pitching contest will begin at 1:00 p.m., while the crosscut sawing contest will begin at 2:00 p.m.

A mule-pulling contest begins at 1:30 p.m. along with music by Catoctin from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The Community Show is sponsored by the Thurmont and Emmitsburg Granges, Catoctin FFA Chapter, Catoctin Area FFA Alumni, and the Maryland Agricultural Fair Board.

Our Trunnion Bearing is designed to mount on our C-Flex™ spring cushioned bearing standard and is allowed to self-align as the gang flexes. Part of the secret to the Trunnion Bearings' longevity is 2-triple lip seals and metal seal washers that prevent dirt from contaminating the inner workings of the regreasable bearing. Excellent seal protection, of course, reduces wear and helps eliminate premature bearing failure.

MAGNUM IS SUPERIOR FOR MANY REASONS

Call 717-626-4705 And Spec. Your Tractor NOW!

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it.

MAGNUM means more Outstanding field performance from a new 505 cubic inch turbocharged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power.

The MAGNUM tractor's powershift puts 18 speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM tractors offer a full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from .5 to 21 mph for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area, virtually unobstructed visibility, more room and more seating comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up. Case IH MAGNUM tractors are setting new standards for the 130-195 PTO hp power range and for you. See us for details.

MAGNUM means more.

AirDiesel

DEUTZ KEEPS ITS COOL

"Stays Alive At 95"

Deutz Air Diesel has more margin of safety in the cooling system. Why?

Because Deutz air cooling system has about 100% more temperature difference at 95° F. Greater temperature difference between cooling surface and cooling air provides more margin of safety. Deutz air cooling system is not as sensitive to ambient temperature rise, therefore the cooling cycle does not break down in "hot" weather.

Deutz air cooling system is a clever combination of air cooling and lube oil cooling. Lube oil cooled pistons allow high outputs with a wide margin of safety.

Fewer cooling system parts to give you trouble. Call or visit us to get the full details on the amazing Deutz Air Diesel cooling system.

FORD NEW HOLLAND

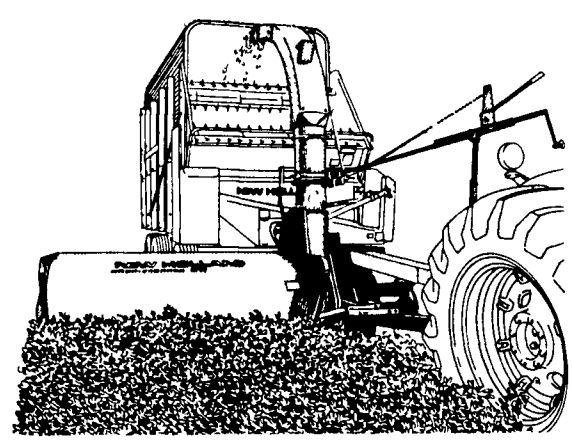
Exclusive – 12-knife cutterhead

High quality feed is important to you So you'll like the fine uniform chop you get from the Model 718 forage harvester It's the only medium duty chopper available with a 12 knife cutterhead to give you a controlled even cut. The uniform length of cut makes for easier unloading blowing, storing and feeding And you can choose from four crop saving heads—a one- or two row cornhead, a windrow pickup or a sicklebar

Fill silos fast

The Model 30 forage blower has only one speed—FAST It keeps up with your harvester and wagons and fills silos quickly The secret of the Model 30's capacity is its 1 000 rpm driveline and the Whirl A Feed® hopper that gives the crop a running start before entering the blower And the hopper is a whopping 48 inches in diameter for reduced spillage If you're looking for a blower with amazing capacity, ask us about the Model 30



All-seasons chopper

A Crop Chopper® is perfect for a variety of chopping jobs Use it to cut green feed make bedding out of cornstalks or straw or shred and spread cornstalks for mulching It can even mow weeds or clear small brush and stubble

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Maryland Initiates Salmonella Testing Among Chicken Flocks

ANNAPOLIS, MD — Officials with the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene announced the state is embarking on a comprehensive testing program that will make it the first in the nation to test all commercial chicken egg-laying flocks for the presence of Salmonella enteriditis.

In conjunction with the testing program, both departments have signed an order requiring all owners of infected flocks to pasteurize all eggs from those flocks before they can be sold for human consumption. The state's actions are the result of a recent emerging concern that infected chickens may pass the organism into the egg. Testing has shown the presence of this Salmonella in four of 15 flocks tested in Cecil County.

"Everyone should be aware that Salmonella is widespread, and always has been," said Adele Wilzack, R.N., M.S., secretary, department of health and mental hygiene. "As the Health Department has always maintained, taking ordinary precautions in preparing and cooking all foods, including eggs and poultry products, drastically reduces the chance of illness."

Secretary Wilzack then suggested that consumers follow these safety measures:

*cook chicken and eggs until well done;

*don't serve food items containing raw eggs — instead use pasteurized eggs in items like homemade ice cream, egg nog, etc.;

*refrigerate chicken and eggs promptly following purchase;

*keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold;

*wash raw foods carefully and thoroughly;

*don't re-use utensils or cutting boards that have been used to prepare foods like raw chicken, meats, and eggs until they have been thoroughly washed with soap and water;

*wash hands thoroughly after handling raw foods to lessen the possibility of contaminating cooked, ready-to-eat foods or serving utensils;

*do not thaw frozen raw poultry at room temperature, thaw in the refrigerator or in cool running water;

*do not stuff turkeys or chicken the night before cooking;

*carefully follow label directions on packages;

*refrigerate leftovers promptly and heat thoroughly before reserving (gravies should be reheated to a "rolling boil") — fresh cooked foods rarely cause illness;

*for storing, preparing or serving quick-frozen foods, storage at proper temperatures prevents Salmonella growth — thorough cooking will kill them;

*avoid tasting raw food preparations containing eggs, such as pastry mixes.

"This is a real team effort," said Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. "We want the public to be aware that there is a problem, but we're on top of it. We will continue to test Maryland's laying flocks to assure the safety of our poultry products," he concluded.

Cheaper Seeds May Prove Costly

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster) — The cash grain market has increased substantially causing increases in small grain prices for fall. To offset this increase, many farmers may hope to cut corners by saving their own seed or by shopping for better prices.

But doing so may actually cost farmers more according to Fred Lepley, director of farm seed operations for Hoffman Seeds, Inc.

"Cost-cutting measures may look good short-term," says Lepley, "but often they lead to major sacrifices in seed quality, which ultimately affect yield potential."

For example, Exp 1028, a Hoffman proprietary wheat, costs $5 per acre more to plant than Tyler, a popular public variety. In trials during the past three years, however, Exp 1028 has yielded five bushels an acre more than Tyler.

If market price for wheat is $3 per bushel that translates to a $15 per acre advantage. Subtracting its higher $5 per acre planting costs, Exp 1028 ultimately produces $10 per acre yield advantage.

"Farmers should look for variety and quality when purchasing wheat or barley," says Lepley.

In addition to Exp 1028, Hoffman produces two other proprietary wheat varieties, Hoffman 23 and Coker 916. Hoffman Seeds is also the Northeast producer and supplier of Funk's G-Hybrid corn.

Are We Feeding For Production Needs?

NEWARK, DE — Not really! We think we do. Professionally, as dairy farmers and as consultants, we assume we do. And we got away with it for a while, when most of our cows milked less than 20,000 pounds in 10 months. But our luck is going to run out as we move into the major league of dairying -- into the bio-hi-tech era. Into not just computer-aided dairying but, beyond that, into metabolically and nutritionally manipulated cows.

The lazy and fat dairy cows are disappearing from our herds, just as the low-genetics cows have, thanks to A.I. and DHIA. Now, we have rumen manipulators, that is, "isoplus" supplements. And soon we'll have growth regulators, BST and others that make high-efficiency feed converters out of our cows.

When this happens, milking 10 percent of body-weight will no longer be the exception, but the rule. Just imagine. No more fat cows, and no more lazy ones, either. And no more complacency on our part in assuming we're feeding our cows according to production needs! We aren't.

You'll no doubt agree that we tend to feed our cows according to the daily pounds of milk they produce, individually or in groups. In general, we try to feed those animals yielding above 50 pounds or so a certain formula or certain amount of ration once or several times a day. But cows with less milk -- the so called "low milking group" -- receive a smaller amount of supplements.

The logic seems clear. We feed cows at the level that they earn, plus a certain "challenge" ration. And once a month, right after the DHIA test, we hurry to readjust those rations. We want to save some feed from those cows that don't deserve it anymore.

Why do I insinuate that this is wrong, that this is not feeding according to production needs? Because, while trying to save money by not overfeeding, we are losing money as our cows don't get bred when they should two months after calving, thus prolonging the lactation beyond the 12-month calving interval that is optimum in terms of profitability.

We are correct nutritionally to feed a certain cow what she deserves at a daily production level of 39 pounds, for example. But we are not correct physiologically to feed every 39-pound milker the same amount of supplement regardless of her stage of lactation -- first month, second month, fifth month, seventh month, or tenth month!

We must change to a system of feeding to meet physiological needs! If a cow who milks 39 pounds is in her first or second month of lactation, she is in the rising phase of her lactation towards peak production, just like another cow who may be milking 80 pounds in her first or second month. And this rising phase of production has two important characteristics.

Nutritionally, it's the time when the cow is usually in a deficit. She needs at least 20 to 25 percent more nutrients -- not feed, but nutrients -- per day than what she is offered or is eating. Physiologically, she is supposed to be producing another ovulation for the next heat cycle and the next pregnancy. But she's in a nutritional deficit and won't produce another egg right away. She'll wait a bit, 'til she gets nutritonally straightened out.

Am I being far-fetched or overly simplistic? I don't think so. At the recent American Dairy Science meeting in Edmonton, Canada, I heard again that our problem is more widespread than we want to admit. More than 32 papers were presented on aspects of BST, the bovine growth hormone, application. In most cases, milk production per cow per day was increased and, while there seemed to be no problematic side effects, a significant number of the cows involved in these studies did not get bred in time or as soon as the controls did. Conclusion: They were not fed correctly for their increased nutritional and physiological needs. Therefore, the cows decided they'd wait a while in producing another egg.

How can you tell whether you are doing right or wrong in your feeding program? Protein content of milk is a good indicator. We usually ignore this, however, cows that are in nutritional deficits usually test low in milk protein -- 3.2 percent or less -- because the mammary gland needs energy to produce milk protein. And if the cow is starving, she will produce less, just as she waits to produce another egg.

Thus, if we want to move towards higher milking cows with higher physiological efficiencies, we must feed them for pounds of milk produced plus stage of lactation needs. Otherwise, we'll lose money instead of making it on our cows.

Lawrence Of DVC Wins Ruth Scholarship

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks) — Richard W. Lawrence III, a senior Dairy Science major at Delaware Valley College, is the first recipient of the Alpheus L. Ruth Scholarship, established to provide financial assistance to a Dairy Science student at this college.

The scholarship fund was established in 1987 by the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, members of the Lehigh Valley Farmers and friends to honor Ruth upon his retirement. Ruth was a longtime president of the Farmers' cooperative and a nationally-known leader in the dairy industry and the cooperative movement.

Lawrence, who will receive $400 for the 1988-89 year, is the son of Richard and Ruth Lawrence of White Hall, MD. A 1985 graduate of Hereford Senior High School in Parkton, MD, he is active in the College's Dairy Society. He has served as president of the Society, chairman of the Society's Clipping Service (which clips local farmers' herds) and chairman of the PA Holstein Heifer Sale. Currently, he is a resident assistant for his dormitory and co-chairman of the A-Day Exposition Committee for 1989.

The fund will provide for two scholarships to be awarded to DelVal Dairy Science students in 1989-90.

The Lehigh Valley Farmer recently merged with the Interstate Milk Producers to form the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, with local facilities in Upper Gwynedd.

Miriam and Alpheus L. Ruth present the first Ruth Scholarship to Richard W. Lawrence III, senior Dairy Science major, as Dr. John Plummer, Delaware Valley College Associate Dean for Agriculture, watches.

Zimbabwe Farmers Visit Lancaster County

BY LISA RISSER

LITITZ (Lancaster) — When you come right downto it, we live in a small world: our hopes, dreams, and problems are echoed by people in countries all over. For instance, two Zimbabwean couples saw this week that the economic situation of Pennsylvania farmers is similar to their own.

"There's an economic squeeze in agriculture that's world wide, really," said Oliver Newton, a commercial farmer from eastern Zimbabwe. "We (as farmers) have rising costs and static returns on the products we offer."

Newton and his fellow travelers, which included his wife, Sarah, and Hammy and Mary Ann Hamilton, noticed that some of the farm families they met in the United States are looking for enterprises outside of farming to support themselves.

The Newtons and Hamiltons were in Pennsylvania for about two weeks, staying with farm families in Washington, Huntingdon, and Lancaster counties as part of a new exchange program coordinated by Penn State and the Commercial Farmers Union (CFU) in Zimbabwe. While in Lancaster, the Hamiltons stayed with Elvin and Marian Brenneman of Mount Joy and the Newtons were hosted by Robert and Naomi Spahr of Lititz.

The strongest memories the travelers will take home are of Pennsylvania's trees and rolling countryside, according to Oliver. "Every farm looks beautiful: they aren't dirty," he said.

"The family unit has really struck us," added Hammy Hamilton, the recently retired provincial chairman for CFU's Manicaland Province. He especially was interested in the 4-H and FFA programs and the concept of giving children farming responsibilites, such as raising a hog or sheep, at an early age.

The primary purpose of the exchange program, in which Pennsylvania farmers will go to Zimbabwe, is to encourage discussions between people in different countries on the issues facing agriculture in the future. The program also serves to promote goodwill between countries and extend knowledge of various cultures.

"I think the concept of Africa in America and America in Africa is completely misrepresented in each country," commented Oliver. "We think of Americans as 'Dallas', 'Dynasty', cowboys, and prairies. Americans tended to think of us as..."

"Swinging from the trees," interjected Sarah with a grin. She added that many people in our country think that Zimbabwe has South American-style jungles and big game animals roaming their lands.

Restricted, or limited, news reporting in both countries probably contributes to the misconceptions, according to Mary Ann. They see broadcasts of our racial skirmishes, while Americans see tapes on the political unrest in Zimbabwe. "We don't see the positiveness of Americans," she commented. "People are very positive in the United States; they're looking forward."

Part of an international exchange to promote good will and the discussion of world farming issues, two Zimbabwean farming couples visited Pennsylvania recently. From left, Marian Brenneman of Mount Joy; Mary Ann Hamilton; Hammy Hamilton; Oliver Newton; Sarah Newton; and Naomi Spahr of Lititz.

Oliver reasoned that the positiveness that they have witnessed may be due to the age of our country, a concept to which Americans may not be accustomed. "You have had a long history in Pennsylvania," he explained. "We have a long history to live through: we are a new nation."

Hammy and Mary Ann own 1,500 acres on which they grow tobacco, corn, peanuts, and a vegetable called blue-tick bean. During the 3½ years Hammy served the CFU, Mary Ann managed the farm, a responsibility she is glad to hand back. The couple have entered the beef cattle business recently with 200 head of Angus-Sussex crossbreds. Hammy hopes to introduce some Brahmin blood eventually. Mary Ann runs a trading store on the farm that provides basic neccesities to the farm's hired hands.

Oliver and Sarah have a bigger operation that includes growing 1,300 to 1,500 acres of cotton, 400 acres of seed corn, 400 to 600 acres of soybean, as well as many acres of winter wheat and seed beans. In addition, they have about 400 head of beef cattle, a Charolais-Africana crossbreed with some Brahmin blood, and Dorper sheep, which are similar to a Suffolk. Sarah does the farm's recordkeeping, tends a flock of 100 layers and numerous broilers, and manages the farm's trading store, which provides goods to the laborers, a number that reaches 1,000 during cotton harvesting.

The two couples began their visit to Pennsylvania in Washington County, followed by two days at Ag Progress, and a stay in Huntingdon County. On Thursday they departed for Washington, D.C. for their return to Zimbabwe.

Milk Market News

BY TOM JURCHAK
County Ext. Agent

SCRANTON (Lackawanna) — While the weatherman provided some relief from drought conditions, Congress did somewhat better, although all farmers were not entirely pleased with either performance. The rain finally came but for some crops it was too late and for others it was too much. No one, however, was getting much relief from the heat that seems to have become a permanent part of the environment for another month.

More weather related problems or blessings are still possible while we're only half way through the growing season so total damage assessments are still a long way off. However, because disaster struck early in the season legislation had to be enacted with the information available to set the bureaucratic machinery in motion. As usual it will require a lot of interpretation and regulation writing to implement the intent of Congress. This will take some time for USDA and a lot of patience for farmers but you can bet that, administratively, there will be a lot of pressure to get the program working as fast as possible.

One of the problems for dairymen may be that the new legislation calls for replacement of the current Emergency Feed Problem and the Emergency Feed Assistance Program. This would mean that new programs and procedures would need to be developed rather than building on existing programs. It is in this area that many are concerned that the new legislation doesn't provide equitable relief for producers who produce much of their feed compared to those who produce all of it. Only time will tell but there seems to be enough discretionary leeway in the bill for USDA to accommodate both types of producers. It may even happen that the new programs will resemble the old ones but under new names and hopefully with improvements that will make it fair to most producers.

Crop Losses

It's in the area covering crop losses that the new legislation devotes most of its efforts. Besides giving special consideration to losses in the price supported crops, the legislation covers all non-program crops including losses of tree seedling planted in the last two years. This means that there will be disaster payments available to producers of nearly all annual commercial crops when they suffered at least a 35 percent loss this year because of the drought. Thirty-five percent of what may still be a question but at least all crops are covered.

Some crops such as hay and corn still have a long way to go before you can determine total losses because it is more likely to be an average for the farm rather than losses on individual fields. However, if there are losses you've already had you should document them with as much evidence and information you can get. This is especially important if you choose to "abandon" a field because it was a near total loss and perhaps replant it to another crop. This may include soil conserving crops to prevent erosion over winter. It's also important to document the yields of crops that you got in the past over as many years as possible in terms of pounds, tons, bushels or any other significant measure. Some yield appraisals may be needed where corn, planted for grain, is now going into corn silage. Some crops such as small grains have already been harvested and this information can be compiled now. Even for dairy farmers growing fruits and vegetables commercially the harvest season may be over and losses must be documented. County ASCS offices are already gathering this kind of information from producers so call if you have questions about harvested crops or crop failure fields. They may want you to leave a representative strip of the original crop for evaluation but if you can take pictures of the entire field it would be helpful. However, don't assume losses without ASCS confirmation.

Support Price

To many producers and some organizations the changes in milk price supports were disappointing. Everything from $2 increases to starting another diversion program were among the proposals. However, Congress felt they had to keep total relief costs low to avoid triggering the Gramm-Rudman law and the resulting assessments on milk. The bill maintains the present $10.60 support price through March of next year when it will be increased 50 cents during the spring flush from April through June. The question is will we have market prices for manufacturing grade milk above the $10.60 from declining production brought on by the heat, the drought and increasing feed prices? The Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series already has increased to $10.53 for 3.5 milk in July and the heat wave is still on.

Milk Marketing Board

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board provided more immediate milk price increases for both the farmers and the consumers. Increases ranged from six cents a gallon in eastern areas to 12 cents in the west on the retail price. This meant 69 cents to $1.39 a hundred on Class I milk at the farm to go from September through February. There's no question about the retail price increase but getting the money back to the farmers may be more complicated. This is especially true here in the northeastern counties where most of the milk is priced at the farm under the New York-New Jersey Federal milk marketing order.

The PMMB increases are essentially over order premiums of the same kind that RCMA has been trying to provide through producer membership and negotiations. In other federal order markets in Pennsylvania the cooperatives may have enough supply control to get additional premiums from handlers. In Order 2 only RCMA is in a position to do this but producers have not joined in sufficient numbers to make it work as effectively as it could. Pennsylvania farmers ship only 25 percent of the milk in Order 2 and only about 12 percent of all the Pennsylvania milk is priced at the farm by PMMB. In addition many Order 2 handlers are already paying premiums at the farm higher than those stipulated by the PMMB but there have not been uniform premiums from all handlers in Order 2. The supply-demand situation in the northeast warrants higher over order premiums as long as handlers can't move between markets to get milk at lower prices but Order 2 producers will need enough membership in RCMA to keep pace with Order 1 and Order 4 in over order premiums.

Order 2 Prices

That increase of 18 cents in the M - W and no take out for the Louisville Plan will make your July check 35 cents a hundred better than June. That's still 65 cents less than last year and that's where your over order premiums are important to cover increasing costs. The blend price of $11.31 in Order 2 and the $10.52 on the M - W started the seasonal price increases that come with production cuts this time of the year. How high prices will rise or how far production will drop will have to wait for a better fix on the weather and the crops.

Liana Named Bedford Junior Show Champion

BY BETH GRAY
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD — Becky Mohr of Bakers Summit paraded a "tall, stylish" five year old "that excels in dairy character" into the Junior Dairy Show at the Bedford County Fair and gathering the kind remarks from Judge John Howard of Willow Strect, regardless that the cow had no competition in class. But when Jimita Sexy Liana by Ocean-View Sexation stood among other blue ribbon winners, Howard continued his commendation, calling her "a tremendous dairy cow," and awarding her senior and grand champion Holstein honors.

A "nicely uddered" junior two-year-old that Howard liked for her frame and strength, as well, earned the reserve senior and reserve grand titles for Jim Garman of Imler RD 1. She was Singing Brook Marvex Buzz by Lawerest Marvex Twin.

Mark Baker of New Enterprise showed his junior calf, Dal-Bar Tpl Cr Bessie by Hanoverhill Triple Crown, to the junior champion slot while Ross Snider of Imler took Singing Brk Royal Emmy by Murdock-Et Ickker Valiant Royality, his red ribbon entry from the same class, into the reserve junior championship.

Mohr won three other classes in the 36-head Holstein event and stood second in another.

In the Guernsey show of equal numbers, Brandon Snider of New Enterprise took his blue-ribbon three year old, Sniders Jamaicas Gem by Olympic View Jamaica, to the winner's circle for the senior champion and grand prize. Snider's four year old, Sniders Fayvors Gina by Housleys Dari Fayvor, snatched the reserve senior and reserve grand rosettes.

Alicia McDonald of Imler showed an intermediate calf, Green Slopes Brickles Banana by Spring Walk TH Frank, to the junior championship while Beth Clark of Bedford handed an intermediate yearling, MM Lad Caprice by Sniders Lassies Dairy Lad, into the reserve junior champion slot.

Best among 19 Jerseys competing was a senior two-year-old, Stan El Sam Swt Potato by Gramhil Ldr Sophie Samson, owned by Janelle Kontz of Bedford and exhibited to the senior championship title as well. Reserve senior and reserve grand honors went to Janice Hardy of Clearville for her junior two year old, Twix Saint Honeycomb by Hi-land Empire State 78.

Dale Pheasant of Williamsburg exhibited his intermediate calf, Peg Silver Brenda by Palmer Fascinator George, to the junior championship while Koontz stood in with the reserve junior champ, a second place intermediate calf, Stan El Dun Swt-n-Sour by Highland Magic Duncan.

Senior and grand champion in the Red and White contest was Ickes Nancy by Burket-Falls Pld Houdy, a senior two year old exhibited by Bryan Ickes of Osterburg. Three year old Duvally Magnitize Kitty by Vigo Magnetize Red captured reserve senior and reserve grand rosettes for Kim Truax of Everett.

Truax also took the junior champion prize for a junior calf, Pineglen Vulture T Bird by Pine-Lee Redlite Volture, as Terri Seese of New Paris showed an intermediate calf, Wdgbrk Jet Misty Nikki by Yurs Jstar Jethro-Rod, to the reserve junior title.

In Brown Swiss judging, Richard Chesney of Roaring Spring captured the senior and grand championships with Cocolamus Improver Amy by W Lawn Stretch Improver, a five year old. Chesney's three year old, Wind Mill Improver Tish by the same sire, earned the reserve senior and reserve grand prizes.

With only two Ayrshires shown, Linett Diehl of Bedford took grand honors with a three year old, CCC Cathy by Marbrae Captain, and reserve with Primrose HL Julie by Highview Larry, a senior two year old.

Dairyman David Myers of Summerhilol, Cambria County, evaluated the young exhibitors for their fitting and showmanship prowess, finding these winners: Pennie Clark of Bedford, junior showman; Mark Baker, junior fitting; Dawn Wyles of Roaring Spring, intermediate showman; Janelle Koontz, intermediate fitting; Becky Mohr, senior fitting; Melissa McDonald of Imler, senior showman.

Conservation Group Awards Scholarship To New York Student

COLUMBUS, OH — The Soil and Water Conservation Society recently named Paul Salon of Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, as the recipient of the $1,000 Kenneth E. Grant Research Scholarship for 1988-1989.

Announcement of the award to Salon was made during an awards luncheon at SWCS's 43rd annual meeting.

The Kenneth E. Grant Scholarship Fund was established by SWCS 11 years ago to provide support for graduate-level research on a topic selected by the organization. The fund was created by friends and associates of Grant following his retirement as administrator of the Soil Conservation Service.

This year's topic called for studies identifying and evaluating possible alternative uses of land enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program following expiration of the 10-year contract, with emphasis on uses of land for producing commodities other than those in surplus nationally.

Salon, a graduate student in plant breeding, will work on breeding a new strain of eastern gamagrass that will produce more healty, viable seed. Eastern gamagrass has almost been grazed into extinction because of cattle's preference for the grass, which is highly palatable.

SWCS is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting the wise use of land and water resources. It has nearly 13,000 members in the United States, Canada and 80 other countries.

Hanover Brands Endow Agribusiness Program

UNIVERSITY PARK (Center) — A $1 million gift from Hanover Brands Inc. food company and its chief executive officer will establish an endowed program in agribusiness education at Penn State.

The gift will provide permanent support to the College of Agriculture to prepare students for careers in agricultural business management. The Alan R. Warehime Program in Agribusiness Education is named for Hanover's chairman. Warehime is a 1936 Penn State graduate in agricultural economics.

"This gift will have a lasting impact on Penn State," University President Bryce Jordan said. "It will fund an innovative program that encourages cooperation among members of agribusiness, government and academic communities in directing the learning process of future agribusiness professionals.

"The gift also will have an appreciable economic impact, since agribusiness is Pennsylvania's largest industry," Jordan added.

Agriculture Dean Lamartine F. Hood said the program will establish a curriculum option for agriculture students who may want careers with food companies. It will provide a broad background of career-related courses, internships, lectureships, scholarships and international activities, he said.

Also, a full-time Warehime Professorship will be established to coordinate, teach, advise and aid in student placement in the program. University administrators plan to recruit an agribusiness executive, government official, or international trade specialist to fill the Warehime Professorship.

"I'm excited about supporting a program that represents a new thrust in training for the future of our industry," said Warehime, who was named a Penn State Distinguished Alumnus in 1975.

The program is aimed primarily at students majoring in agricultural business management, agricultural economics and rural sociology, food science, or horticulture, Hood said.

Another aspect of the program will involve the Penn State Study Abroad Program and will enable students to study agribusiness for one or more semesters within the context of a Third World culture.

Hanover Brands Inc., headquartered in Hanover, Pa., is a leading independent food processing company in the eastern United States. The firm, which grows, processes, and markets canned and frozen food, has operations in Pennsylvania and Guatemala. Its food products are distributed under the Hanover, Myers, Aunt Kittys, Phillips, Gibbs, Superfine, Maryland Chief, Dutch Farms, and O&C labels.

Alan Warehime joined Hanover Brands Inc. in 1935 and became president in 1955. A pioneer of glass pack and several new food processes, he was one of the founders of the Department of Food Science at Penn State. He also helped to support scholarships in the College of Agriculture.

He is a past vice president and director of the National Canners Association, and past president and former chairman of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Canners Association.

Hanover Brands employs more than 1,500 at its six manufacturing plants, including about 200 employees at the freezing facility in Centre Hall. The firm was founded in 1924 by Alan Warehime's father, Harry V. Warehime. His son, John A. Warehime, a 1964 Penn State agriculture graduate, is a director of the firm.

The gift is a commitment to The Campaign for Penn State, a $300 million effort to raise private funds for academic program enhancement. As of July 31, more than $211 million had been raised in Campaign gifts and pledges.

NYBCA Tele-Direct Sale Set For October

CORNING, NY — Nominations are now being accepted for the third annual Tele-Direct Feeder Cattle Program sponsored by the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association. Beef producers must nominate their feeder cattle by September 8. The sale will be held October 28 at Finger Lakes Livestock Exchange, Canandaigua, N.Y.

The 1987 sale was very successful with 957 head returning more than $400,000 to the consignors. Steer calves averaged $.85 per pound and heifers were at $.76 per pound according to Lee Kraszewski, sale manager. Yearling steers averaged $.75 per pound and yearling heifers brought $.66. "The demand for feeder cattle in previous Tele-Direct programs has been excellent due to all cattle being health managed and because we were able to assemble large enough numbers to have uniform trailer load lots available," said Kraszewski.

The 1988 program is similar to last year's program, with all cattle having to meet specific health-management requirements. All cattle are weaned no later than October 1 and accustomed to feeders and waterers. They must be castrated, dehorned, healed and dry. The cattle also must be vaccinated for BSRV, P13, BVD, IBR, H. Somnus, and the Clostridial series. They must receive a selenium injection and be wormed with Ivomec. All vaccinations are to be completed between September 16 and October 1 and certified by the consignors veterinarian.

Kraszewski has calculated that costs for a 550-pound animal (1987 sale average) would be $5 to $7.50 for the shots and $1 to $2 per animal for labor. He emphasized that "labor is the critical factor and the greatest variable if your vet also has to play cowboy. The preconditioning costs are minor for the added value you receive for your animal," he added. As an example, Kraszewski used cattle he consigned to the program in 1987. "My total costs per calf including vaccinations, hay and feed for 28 days, trucking and sale commission was $46.70 per animal. However, I weighed my calves at weaning and have my sale weights. The calves gained an average of 53.48 pounds each and I received $.819 a pound straight through. This equals $43.80. Subtracted from $46.70 equals $2.90 per calf for all costs. In effect, I spent only $2.90 to precondition, transport and sell each calf last fall. I would have had no costs involved except for one heifer that showed a negative weight gain."

The NYBCA Tele-Direct program is for both small and large producers. Consignors sent from two to 75 head with an average of 14 head per farm. Many consignors work together and combine their efforts in working cattle and share trucking costs by gathering tractor trailer lots in various locations. Cattle are again expected from all corners of New York and possibly some out-of-state consignors.

Once nominations are received, each consignor will receive NYBCA ear tags for his cattle, consignment sheets and any other necessary information. Cattle are to be delivered to Canandaigua between 6 p.m. on October 27 and noon on October 28. The cattle will be weighed, graded and sorted into uniform lots. Grading will be done by representatives of NYS Department of Ag & Markets and USDA. Veterinarians from the Cornell Veterinary School will administer boosters for BVD and H. Somnus. Buyers will be able to preview the cattle beginning at 3 p.m. The sale will be held at 6 p.m. on Friday, October 28.

Kraszewski also noted that adequate cattle handling facilities should be available on the consignors farm to speed the working process. "Your area RC&D or local cooperative extension may have access to portable working chutes or can help you locate a unit," Kraszewski said. "NYBCA can also provide you with information for constructing cattle handling facilities."

For nomination forms and other information regarding the NYBCA Tele-Direct program please contact Lee Kraszewski, Exec. Sec., NYBCA, RD1, Box 120, Corning, NY 14830 or call 607-734-8425.

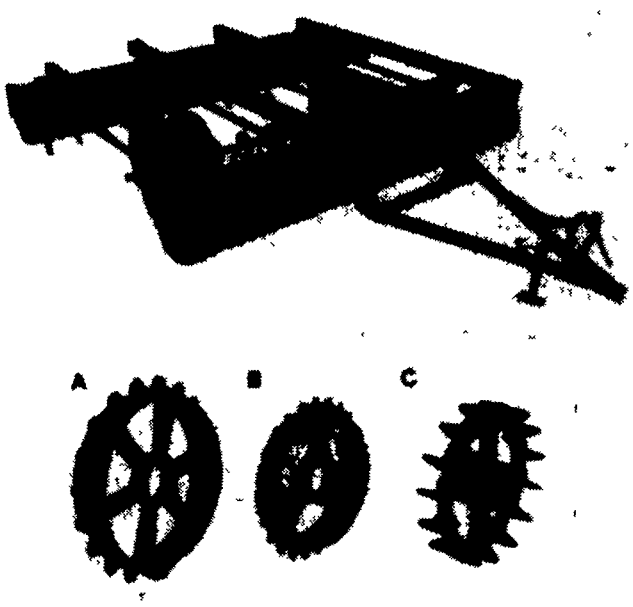
PULVI-MULCHER

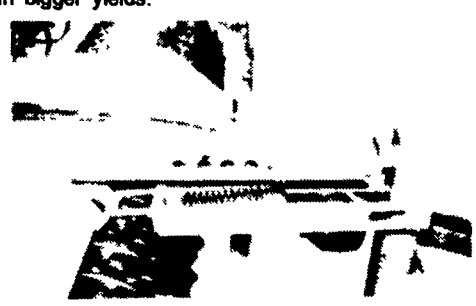
Brillion pioneered the Pulvi-Mulcher and has introduced numerous features over the years that have made this machine one of the most popular secondary tillage tools. Now, with the introduction of the ML and MR Series, Brillion offers a longer, high-clearance frame for better flow of trash through the machine. Another new feature is the non-rotating tooth bar that holds the teeth in a fixed pre-set position that keeps them at the proper angle, regardless of the working depth of 2" to 6". Other features and options are shown on the right side of ad.
* Contact Brillion Iron Works for details.



The ML Series of Pulvi-Mulchers feature the (a) 20", six-spoke ductile iron notched roller wheel, made of material which is two-and-a-half times stronger than gray cast iron roller wheels. The roller wheels are manufactured in Brillion's own modern ductile iron foundry that utilizes a computer-controlled Disamatic molding machine. The frame is also designed to accommodate (b) the 16¼ " notched roller wheel or (c) the 16½ " Crowfoot roller wheel for the MR Series. The machine may be ordered with either "C" shaped ribbon teeth or "S" spring tines.

BETTER SEEDBEDS AND BIGGER YIELDS

With some types of tillage the soil is loosely packed with many lumps that allow moisture to evaporate quickly through air pockets. Lost moisture reduces speed of germination and impeeds the spread of small feeder roots in their search for nourishment. The Brillion Pulvi-Mulcher crushes both surface and buried lumps and converts fall and spring plowing into a clod-free seedbed. The firmed, mulched soil locks in moisture, especially at the root level. Soil nutrients become readily available to the young feeder roots, since they can reach out in all directions without struggling against clods. Nutrients then travel through the root system, developing stronger plants, which in turn result in bigger yields.



Operating controls are located at the front of the machine for easy access. The tooth depth control has five pin positions, from 2" to 6" depths. The transport lock pin is in front when the machine is in locked position for transport.

The newly-designed parallel linkage features non-rotating tooth bars that hold the teeth in a fixed position to keep them working at the proper angle, regardless of the working depth. The photo also shows the spread-out frame design that permits good trash flow. Frame members are 6"x4". This machine is equipped with S-tines and the new 20" ductile iron notched rollers.

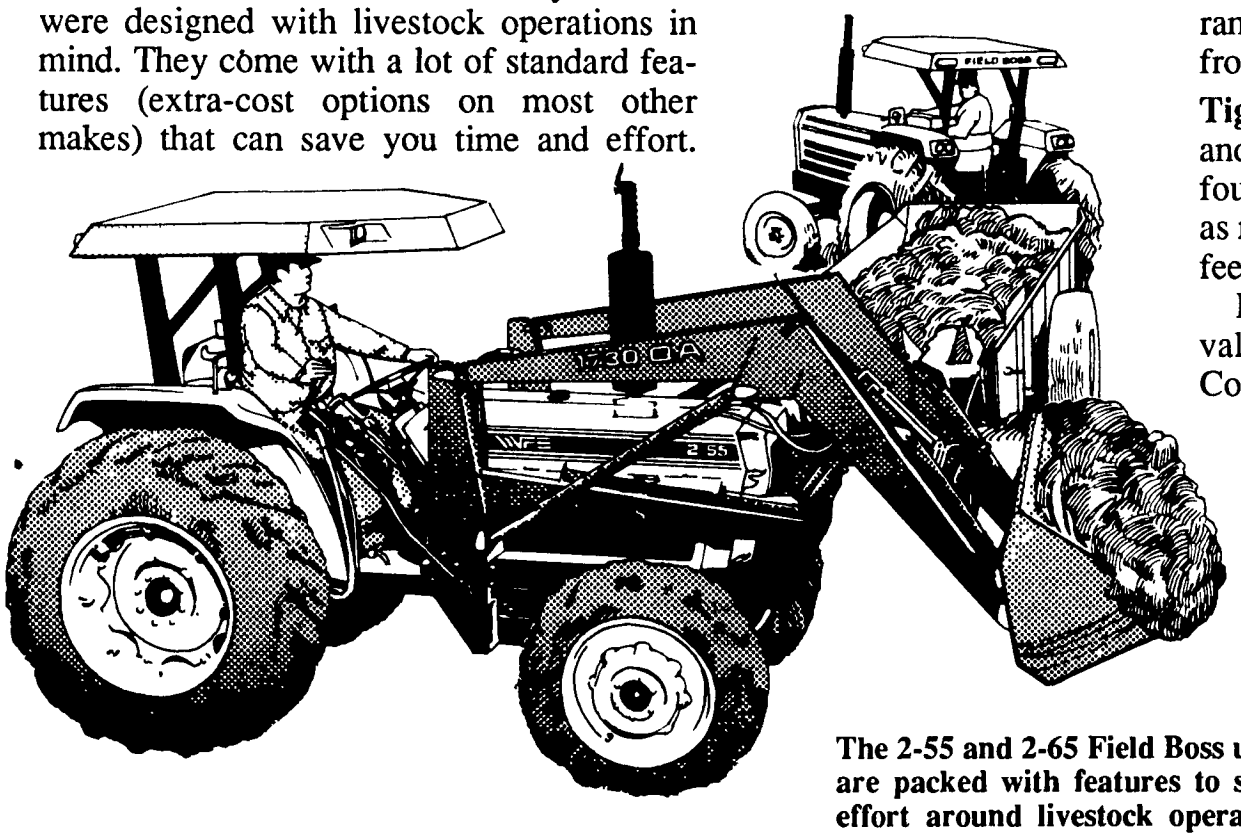
Load-up with White Farm utility tractors

Livestock means loader tractors. And the 2-55 and 2-65 Field Boss® utility tractors were designed with livestock operations in mind. They come with a lot of standard features (extra-cost options on most other makes) that can save you time and effort.



The 2-55 and 2-65 Field Boss utility tractors are packed with features to save time and effort around livestock operations.

Shift on-the-go. Our new synchro-mesh transmission lets you shift through four ranges without stopping. To let you choose from 16 forward speeds.

Tighter turning. You'll like the quickness and agility of the 2-55 and 2-65, too. Even the four-wheel drive models turn almost as tight as most other two-wheel drives. A big plus in feedlots and other tight spots.

Experience for yourself the quality and value built into every 2-55 and 2-65 tractor. Come in today. It'll be worth the trip.

WHITE FARM EQUIPMENT

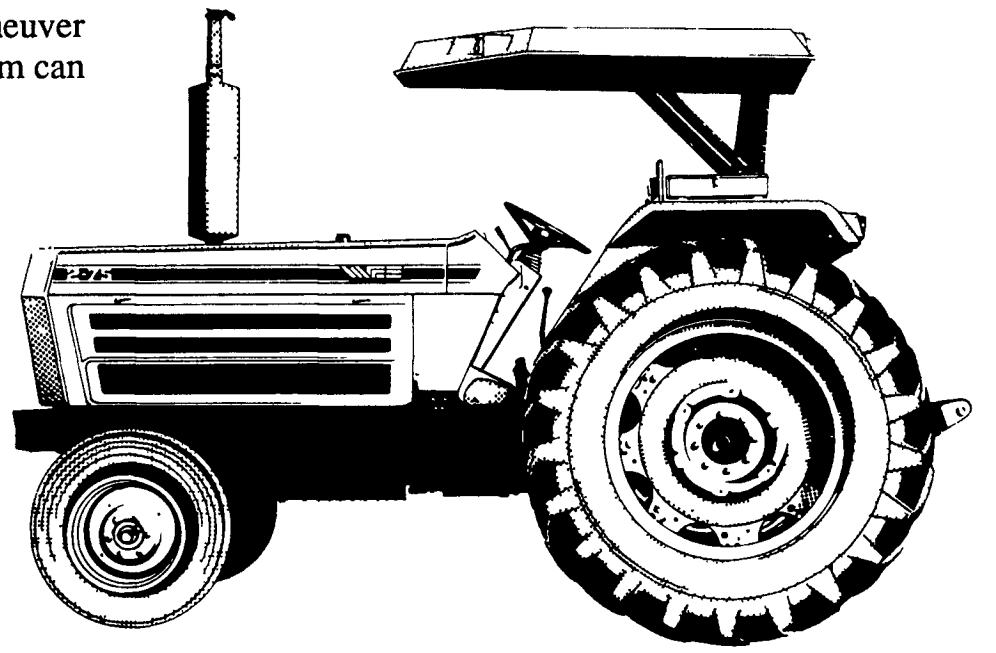
Big enough for the field, agile enough for the feedlot.

Whether you need to do heavy work in the field or maneuver around the feedlot, the 2-75 Field Boss® from White Farm can handle the job with ease.

Power to spare. The engine on this tractor is a beautiful 75* hp direct-fuel-injected six cylinder diesel. Teamed with the big-tractor power train and hydraulics, it makes the 2-75 more tractor than most utilities could ever be.

More standard features. What some other manufacturers call options come standard on the 2-75. Synchromesh transmission. Both 540 and 1000 rpm PTO. Two batteries for more starting power. Adjustable lower links on the 3-pt. hitch. And more!

Experience for yourself the quality and value built into the 2-75 tractor. You'll want to take one home.



Whatever you use a utility tractor to do, you'll like doing it better with a 2-75 Field Boss.

WATER USAGE ON THE BROILER FARM
By Forest Muiur
Professor of Poultry Science

The temperature pattern during the past three months has renewed interest in evaporative cooling systems for broilers. It can be anticipated that before next summer a considerable number of high pressure misting systems will be installed to utilize this form of evaporative cooling to help maintain bird comfort in broiler houses. The purpose of this article is not to discuss the merits of evaporative cooling, but to aid producers in estimating the quantity of water required for the broiler production unit.

How much water is required for a broiler production unit? The principle need for water in a typical broiler house is for drinking purposes. The quantity required is influenced by ambient temperature and the number of broilers being produced. The installation of a high pressure evaporative cooling system could increase the demand for water sufficiently to necessitate location of an additional supply.

A study was conducted in Georgia to collect daily water consumption data for 24 flocks of broilers. As expected, the water consumption was higher for summer flocks. Analysis of the data for the summer flocks revealed a simple guideline for predicting water consumption in commercial broiler flocks. The water consumption for 1000 chicks of any age (hatching thru 48 days) can be estimated by multiplying the age in days by 1.5 gallons. Using this guideline the water requirement for 20-day- old chicks would be 30 (1.5 x 20) gallons/1000 broilers. Forty- day-old chicks would require 60 gallons/1000 broilers. This guideline tends to underestimate the quantity of water required during the early period of a flock and slightly overestimate the amount of water required during the latter stage of the flock. This simple guideline could be used to estimate the daily drinking water requirement for any size broiler house.

The next step would be to calculate the quantity of water required for the high pressure misting system. Misting nozzles should have a capacity of 1.

Fleetwood Girl Shows Class Winner At Junior Simmental Show

TIMONIUM, MD — Kenianne Rarick of Fleetwood, Penn., showed a June 1987 heifer, KSR Ladybird, that was selected as class winner at the Eastern Junior Simmental Exposition (EJSE) held here at the fairgrounds. Ladybird, sired by Lightning out of Kintyre Bluebird, returned to the ring to be judged one of the top 10 heifers of the show.

Rarick was the only Pennsylvanian to be asked back to the ring in the showmanship finals.

The EJSE is open to all Junior Simmental Association members on the East Coast. This year's show was attended by members from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan, South Carolina, North Carolina, and New York. The week-long show contained events such as sales talks, herdsman quiz, sire summary quiz, public speaking, and livestock judging.

KSR Ladybird, owned by Kenianne Rarick of Fleetwood, was the winner of the June class at the Eastern Junior Simmental Exposition. The heifer also was named one the show's top 10 heifers.

W. CHESTER (Chester)-Twenty-six 4-H members and 107 market hogs braved the scorching heat on August 12 and 13, to compete in the 1988 Chester County 4-H Hog Sale at New Holland Sales Stable in New Holland. When it was all said and done, the champion chosen by Keith Bard of Portage, was a 230 pound blue-backed gilt shown by Melissa Stoltzfus of Honey Brook. The gult, bred by J. This belt feeder can be used in outside lots as well as free-stall or stanchion barns. It features a stretch-resistant, 14-inch-wide belt that delivers feed at a rate of up to 65 bushels per minure.

Badger Northland Introduces Heavy-Duty Belt Feeder

KAUKAUNA — A heavy-duty belt feeder, designed to accommodate large-scale feeding operations, is now available from Badger Northland Inc.

The BN6000 heavy-duty feeder/conveyor adapts to outside lots, free stalls or stanchion barns and can be used to transport silage, haylage, grain or mixed ration. The BN6000 operator can "selectively" disperse the feed using manual, semi-automatic or fully automatic controls in the combination that best suits his needs.

Through the use of select feeding, dairy and cattle farmers can reduce overall costs by automating feed handling and grouping cattle according to production state. They can also maximize milk production by using the challenge feed method.

The Badger BN6000 features single motor power for both belt and plow to minimize maintenance, as well as a heavy-duty drive unit designed to withstand maximum use. The stretch-resistant PVC and polyester belt measures 14" in width, and delivers feed at a rate of up to 65 bushels or 81-1/4 cubic feet per minute. The BN6000 also features relube ball bearings, simple V belt and roller chain reduction, and an 8 1/2" diameter drive roll with snub rolls to assure proper belt traction.

The BN6000 rigid steel frame comes in five-, eight-, and ten-foot lengths and provides a top-side trough that maximizes trouble-free feed delivery. To provide extra feed protection, covers and wind shields are also available.

Other accessories available for Badger's BN6000 include remote plow control, mounting stands, convey and feed pack, one or two way plows, roller packs, etc.

Fore more information on the Badger BN6000 contact Chet Gibbons, Badger Northland Inc., 1215 Hyland Avenue, Kaukauna, Wisconsin, 54130.

While in school, Roy worked for the New Jersey Department of Agriculture's Poultry Grading Division, the Cook College Farm, and Cook College's Environmental Toxicology Animal Laboratory. Roy was a member of the Rutgers Dairy Cattle Judging Team and the Society of Animal Science. He also served as president of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity and was a member of the Rutgers Fraternity Council.

Roy Carter

After graduation, Roy joined the District II technician force of Sire Power's Northeast Sales Division in 1978. He consistently has placed well in annual sales performance contests, including winning the first-place overall award in the 1984 contest. Roy also has worked part-time at Tower-Vue Holsteins, a 65-head dairy farm where he assisted with milking, herd health, and feeding.

Roy and his wife Susan have relocated to Anamosa, Iowa.

Cargill Concerned About Genetic Misconception

MINNEAPOLIS, MN — Recently there has been a great deal of discussion about the lack of genetic diversity and increased risk associated with growing currently available corn hybrids. Cargill Hybrid Seeds is concerned about some misconceptions that have developed regarding genetic diversity.

Electrophoresis, a method of analyzing the genetic makeup of seed, can determine which hybrids have the same genetic makeup and which hybrids are different.

At present this process can compare only a few of the many genes that constitute a corn hybrid. Hybrids have hundreds of genes that affect performance. Electrophoresis does not allow detection of many genetic differrences that affect performance.

Although some hybrids developed from related groups of inbreds appear to be similar, they can be quite different in performance. Therefore, Cargill believes that using electgrophoresis alone is an unreliable method of predicting hybrid performance.

Additional genetic diveristy is needed to help farmers spread the risk of uncertain growing conditions.

A farmer may be at risk due to lack of genetic diversity if he plants most of his acreage to a single hybrid purchased from one company, or if he unknowingly plants the same genetic combination purchased from several companies.

Cargill's hybrid lineup for 1989 planting has been selected from diverse genetic backgrounds to offer farmers significant diversity. A farmer who plants several Cargill hybrids on the majority of his acreage will reduce potential risk.

There really are only about nine different corn hybrids of the same genetics planted on most U.S. corn acreage.

This idea has been suggested by some companies that have no proprietary inbred development programs and offer only a few hybrids that are created from foundation seed or publicity available genetic stock.

It's possible that hybrids from such companies are genetically identical.

On the other hand, this year Cargill will test approximately 100,000 corn inbreds and about 6,300 corn hybrids that are genetically different. A farmer can be assured that the Cargill hybrids he plants today, and in the future, will be genetically diverse.

Adjustable Coulter Cart Gives Drills Added Punch

COLCHESTER, IL. — Yetter Mfg. Co.'s versatile 6600 Series Coulter Cart is the answer to converting conventional 3 pt. grain drills, planters and other implements for no-till or mini-till operations.

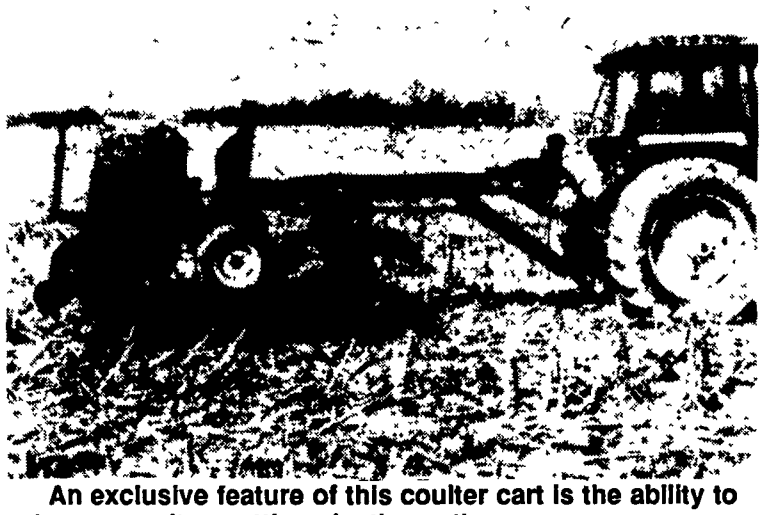
Drill openers run accurately in the path cut by the coulters, which are adjustable for opener spacing. Undisturbed residue helps preserve moisture and prevent wind and water erosion.

An exclusive Yetter feature allows coulter cutting depth to be changed on the go and the attached implement hydraulically leveled to match field conditions. According to Yetter, this is a benefit no other similar device on the market offers.

The Weight Transfer System™ on the Coulter Cart and its unique depth adjustment achieves uniform penetration in tough conditions. New, one-of-a-kind polymer gauge wheels can be easily mounted to set precise coulter cutting depth. The tough, durable polymer resists soil buildup to maintain accurate depth gauging for continued efficiency.

Four transport wheels distribute the load evenly to reduce soil compaction, while a 4-way swivel hitch reduces lateral strain on the tractor draw bar. An 8"x8" steel tongue extends 34 inches to accommodate an extra toolbar to mount fertilizer coulters for one-pass feed and seed.

For information contact Yetter Mfg. Co., Clochester, IL 62326-0358. Toll Free Outside IL — 800/447-5777; In IL 800/325-7165.



An exclusive feature of this coulter cart is the ability to change coulter cutting depth on the go.

A BUSINESS CALLED FARMING

Jesse Cooper, Retired Penn State Extension Farm Management Specialist.

I would like to think that most Americans are aware that our nation's farmers must treat their farming operations as a business. Still, there are individuals popping up who noisily proclaim all would be well in agriculture if our farmers would simply refuse to adopt new methods, materials, and scientific discoveries that characterize modern agriculture and return to what they unrealistically refer to as the "good old days." It is indeed interesting to watch and predict how every so often some time worn agricultural activist or aspirant to national headlines will come up with a reworked list of our agricultural problems that cannot be solved unless we practice a "sustainable agriculture" or some other slogan meaning, as best as I can determine, trashing the present and slipping back to the farming methods of a generation or so ago.

Since I grew up on a family farm decades ago and spent much of my life providing financial management assistance to Pennsylvania farmers, I tend to take it very personally when I hear or read that sort of stuff. My first reaction is one of suspicion. I suspect that anyone who promotes farming as it was back then has never had any farm experience to draw on nor any real appreciation of the opportunities that currently exist for a person well grounded in financial management with adequate resources.

These folks forget that when Thomas Jefferson embraced the Agrarian concept two hundred years ago that 90% of our population was mainly farmers. Despite the fact that today less than 3% of our people are farmers, most farm land is still controlled and operated by farm families.

Agrarianism should also be credited with fostering the idea still widely held among the general public that anyone who thinks he or she would like to farm should be given that chance. In colonial days, land could be settled by homesteaders with little more than a strong back, ax, hoe and perhaps a horse or an ox and a few head of other livestock. Perhaps it was somewhat easier to get started then. Frankly, I'm not so sure, and that brings me to my next point.

Risk has always been a very real part of farming. Despite occasional help from the government, I agree that modern farming is at best a very demanding occupation subject both to the unpredictable whims of man and nature. Some prosper, some fail under today's conditions, just as farmers did under different circumstances two hundred years ago. It personally upsets to me watch too many of our remaining farmers try to cope with modern agriculture using management methods that were obsolete fifty years ago, ignoring management tools that have been perfected in the meantime. The world goes on and some of us are getting left behind. Management help is out there if we're not too busy--or not too obstinate--to use it.

All of which brings me to a letter to the editor of our local newspaper that triggered this outburst. In that letter, two local chaps suggested Ag Progress Days, the annual 3-day event sponsored by Penn State University, should direct its educational program not to the latest scientific developments in agriculture, but should confine itself to improving the way of life for our farmers--a sustainable agriculture, I suspect they would call it. If what they really had in mind was returning to the "good old days," then I want them to know that I've been there and I'm not going back--at least not willingly. Should I have any choice but to return to yesteryear, then I have a whole stack of scientific information and other material that Penn State and similar institutions have uncovered in the intervening years that would make my return much more bearable.

Don't get me wrong. I have lots of pleasant memories of those days and I love to share them with anyone trapped into listening, but I need only an occasional visit to the Pasto Farm Museum out at the Ag Progress Days grounds to bring me back to reality. If you haven't gone through it, that building is crammed with farm tools and equipment, much of it obsolete even before my time. I wonder how many advocates of returning to the farm life of a generation ago would react when they understand how constantly dependent that style of agriculture was on back-breaking manual labor. In short, they shouldn't promote something like that too highly until they have done time digging a few ditches with a pick or milked cows by hand.

Rather than trying to undermine the outstanding contributions Penn State has made to Pennsylvania Agriculture, past and present, why not give credit where it is due? Since its origin as the Farmers' High School, Penn State has played a leading role in agricultural progress in the Keystone State. I am but one of thousands who have benefited from the assistance that our College of Agriculture, through its education, research and extension services, has provided and can continue to provide in the years ahead.

So take it from me: Unless you've got another good job or are as they say "independently wealthy," don't fall for all this nonsense about reverting back to the simple life of the "good old days." I prefer today's challenges of a business called farming.

NMC Offers Recommendations For Predipping

ARLINIGTON, VA — Recently, there has been much progress in the area of premilking teat dipping. Studies show that predipping can control environmental mastitis and the practice is being widely used by dairy producers. The National Mastitis Council Teat Dip Residue Task Force was formed to address the question of milk residue from both pre-and post-teat dipping. Of particular concern to the committee is drainage of excess teat dip, when used premilking, into the milking unit.

Predipping does not necessarily mean that teat dip residue will be in the milk. When done properly, predipping can be of great importance to herd health while minimizing the risk of contaminating milk with teat dip residue.

Here are some tips for predipping:

1. Use only a teat dip which is listed with the Food and Drug Administration and has predipping instructions on the label. Information about a product can be obtained from the manufacturer, veterinarians, university personnel, and the National Mastitis Council.

2. Follow proper application procedures:

- Preclean teats as necessary.
- Forestrip (may be done before or after applying teat dip).
- Apply teat dip. Allow for manufacturers contact time.
- Dry teats with single service paper towels.
- Attach milking unit.

Milking predipped teats that have been properly dried has many benefits:

* Reduces the possibility of residues in milk from surface drainage of excess teat dip.
* Sanitizes the teat prior to milking.
* Reduces environmental mastitis.
* Minimizes liner slippage.

Proper drying of the teats is essential in maintaining the safety of our milk supply.

This article is one of a continuing series made available by the National Mastitis Council. For additional information, contact the NMC, 1840 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, VA 22201 (703-243-8268).

MILKING TIPS

Attitude Makes A Difference

Proper milking procedures and a positive attitude are required to minimize mastitis and maximize quality production from a milking herd. Milking should be done by responsible and conscientious persons. Good management dictates that the person milking must be constantly alert to conditions that may spread mastitis organisms from cow to cow. Correcting such conditions assists the production of high quality milk from healthier udders.

Provide A Street Free Environment

A consistent operating routine for bringing cows and milking machines together is essential. Cows that are frightened or excited before milking may not let their milk down in spite of an effective preparation routine. Hormones are released into the bloodstream during periods of stress. These hormones interfere with normal milking procedure and the animal's resistance to disease, including mastitis. A milking environment that routinely causes stress to cows may predispose cows to a greater rate of mastitis infection.

Clip Udders For Cleanliness

Well clipped udders reduce the amount of dirt and manure that can contaminate milk. Udders with long hair are difficult to clean and dry. Milking wet and/or dirty teats increase the risk of high bacteria counts in the milk and increase the rate of new cases of mastitis.

Check Foremilk And Udder For Mastitis

Presence of mastitis can be detected by using the hand to physically examine the udder for swelling, heat, and/or "knots" and using a strip cup or plate to examine foremilk of each quarter of each cow prior to every milking. Correct use of the strip cup can be a valuable aid in detecting symptoms of mastitis such as clotty, stringy, or watery milk. Milk should never be stripped into the hand. This routine spreads mastitis organisms from teat to teat and cow to cow. Forestripping may aid in preventing new infections by flushing mastitis organisms from inside the teat.

Good Massage Increases Production

When teats and the lower part of the udder are massaged, a signal is sent to the brain which secretes the milk letdown hormonre, oxytocin, into the blood stream. The hormone is then carried to the udder where it acts on muscle cells to "squeeze" milk out of the milk-secreting tissue. Massage of all teats is better than massage of only one or two teats and physically squeezing each teat will reduce the amount of milk left in the udder at the end of milking. Large amounts of milk left in the udder increase frequency of clinical mastitis in infected quarters.

Fright And Flight Syndrome

Positive signals to the brain cause release of oxytocin and milk letdown. However, signals are also sent to the animal's brain when she is frightened or experiences pain. These signals cause the release of adrenalin which interferes with the action of oxytocin making it difficult to obtain maximum milk yield. Fright and/or pain may also cause an increase in the rate of new mastitis infections.

Washing Teats In A Parlor

In milking parlors, the common method of washing is to use a hose (delivering sanitizing solution) and hands to remove debris from teats. Only the teats should be washed, as wetting the whole udder makes it difficult to adequately dry the udder before milking machines are attached. Milking wet udders and teats may lead to increased mastitis and bacteria counts in bulk milk.

Washing Teats In A Stanchion Barn

In stanchion barns, it is necessary to use a sanitizing solution in a bucket and individual paper towels to prepare udders and teats. Individual paper towels are highly recommended as sponges and cloths frequently increase transmission of mastitis organisms to uninfected quarters and cows.

Milk Only Dry Teats

Regardless of how the udder and teats are prepared for milking they must be dry when milking machines are attached. Dry with individual paper towels to prevent cross contamination of quarters and cows. Washing udders and teats without thorough drying leaves many organisms on the teats. During milking, water containing mastitis organisms can drip down the sides of teats and may be drawn into teat cups, exposing the teat ends to bacteria. Milking wet teats causes mastitis and lowers milk quality.

Machine-Induced Mastitis

A majority of machine-induced infections occur near the end of milking. Toward the end of milking, when a teat cup liner slips as the liner opens small droplets of milk may be propelled back against the end of the teat. These droplets may contain mastitis organisms and, in some instances, may enter the teat. Since milk flow is minimal, chances of the organism being flushed out of the quarter are reduced and an infection may result. These milk droplets have been associated with increased mastitis in many studies.

Removing The Milking Unit

The way in which teat cups are removed is more important than the way they are attached. Vacuum should always be shut off before teat cups are removed. The practice of pulling the unit off under vacuum should be avoided because it may cause a machiine-induced infection is one of the other quarters. A question often asked is "how should a quarter that milks out ahead of others be handled?" In general, if the teat cup will stay on the teat without slips, it should be left on because removal of the cup stimulates liner slip and may cause machine-mastitis. Incorrect removal of units may constitute a very significant threat to udder health.

Dip Teats Immediately After Unit Removal

Dip at least the lower one-third of each teat in a commercial preparation after every milking. A good teat dip destroys organisms on teats, prevents organisms from growing inside the end of the teat, and eliminates organisms already living inside teat ends. A variety of teat dip products are available. Many products, commercially available, are known to reduce new infections by more than 50 percent. Ask the dealer for research results that prove the product is effective.

Use Clean Dip And Keep Dipping

Maintain teat dip cups in a clean and sanitary manner and never pour remaining dip back into the original container. When dip becomes cloudy or contaminated with bedding or manure, discard the remaining dip, clean cups thoroughly, and refill with fresh dip. Always continue dipping, even during cold weather. However, when the temperature is below 10 degrees F or there is a strong wind chill factor, allow teat dip to remain on teats for at least 30 seconds and then wipe off excess dip with individual paper towels to reduce chapping and freezing of teats.

Which Cows First?

The order in which cows are milked can have an impact on controlling the spread of mastitis, although it is recognized that herds may be grouped by other economic criteria. By milking first lactation cows first, second and later lactation cows with low somatic cell count second, cows with high somatic cell counts third, and clinical mastitis cows last, the chance of spreading mastitis organisms from cow to cow is reduced.

Drought May Increase Risk Of Silo Fires

By Robert Leiby & David L. Dunbar
Lehigh County Agents

Sufficient forage moisture content is crucial in preventing silo fires. Silage should have a moisture content of 65 percent in a conventional silo. Silage stored in an oxygen-limiting silo should contain at least 45 percent moisture.

Several other factors contribute to the development of silo fires. During a dry year, it becomes more important than usual to follow the following recommendations for ensiling crops:

1. Chop haycrop forages between 45 and 65 percent moisture.
2. Chop grass silage fine so that the actual length is not over 1/2 to one inch; a 1/4 inch theoretical length is recommended. In no case should more than one percent of the ensiled material be over 1-1/2 inches in length. Keep knives sharp and set close to the shear bar.
3. Chop alfalfa silage in the bud stage and grass in the boot stage.
4. Mow and condition only what can be put up in a single day.
5. Keep silo walls sealed and in good condition.
6. Check all silo doors for a proper seal and make sure they are in good condition. Seal old doors by applying a sealant on the lip of the door frame.
7. Equip the silo with a good center fill or mechanical silage distributor to keep silage uniform from bottom to top. Keep the distributor adjusted properly; follow the manufacturer's instructions.
8. For low moisture silage, seal all drains before filling.
9. Fill the silo rapidly to assure good packing. A minimum of two feet per hour is recommended.

If a silo fire should occur, consult the publication, "Extinguishing Silo Fires", NRAES-18, available from county extension offices.

Coleman Turns Over Reins As PBC Executive Director

HARRISBURG — Bob Coleman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, announced that he is leaving the Beef Council position now that the Beef Promotion and Research Act has been extended by a referendum of U.S. cattlemen and women.

"My contract with the PA Beef Council was to coordinate the state program to promote beef, dairy and veal on a part-time basis as the program grew," Coleman said. "But the job has become a full-time position. I decided not to continue as a full-time executive director and to devote more time to Longmeadow Farm, my purebred Angus operation in Centre Township, Perry County."

Coleman began his service to the Beef Council in its infancy, as a director in 1976. That was the first year PA had an organized voluntary beef-checkoff program. Working with the fledgling organization to promote beef through its $.25 voluntary checkoff, Coleman became treasurer of the PBC in 1980 and served in that capacity for six years.

Coleman said, "Getting the basic program established has been a major accomplishment. Dairy farmers, veal growers and cattlemen are all investors in this program."

Consumers have told us they want lean beef. Because of this program, we're now telling them we've got it and making sure consumers and health professionals know the nutritional benefits of beef, too.

"This program has made it possible for beef, dairy and veal producers to work together to improve their markets. And they've shown tremendous successes."

"An incredible change has taken place both in PA and nationwide in the past two years," Coleman said. "Consumer attitudes have changed, beef is now seen favorably, and certainly, beef production is profitable again. That was our basic goal with passage of the Beef Promotion and Research Act."

The PBC was recognized in June, 1986 as one of 41 qualifying state beef councils by the US Agriculture Secretary. In July, 1986 PBC retained Coleman to open a statewide office, organize the mandatory assessment collection, and oversee all promotion, research and educational programs. The contract was for 26 months in which a national referendum would be held, and the PBC would establish permanent staff.

Under the program, the PBC collects $1/head assessments when cattle or calves are sold, from 425 to 450 "collecting persons." About 60 percent of the funds are collected by auction markets.

PA collections total about $1.3 million each year. Other states and the 113 member Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board, which administers the national program receive more than half of that total. PBC administers the remaining funds, coordinating with the other programs to increase demand and consumption.

"We've emphasized educational and consumer programs to expand on the message that beef is 'Real food for real people,' and essential to any normal diet," Coleman said. Research has shown that most buying decisions are made at the supermarket, and PBC has worked with 2,250 PA markets to conduct point of purchase promotions. Video meat features, which contain 60 second features on how to select, prepare, cook and serve one of the 50 cuts of beef or veal have been used at meat cases as well."

The PBC has funded 12-15 projects in promotion, education and research, distributing 400,000 brochures, booklets, recipes, and other publications with the message that beef, veal and dairy products belong in everyone's diet

Coleman said, "Now that the checkoff is in place, longer range educational programs targeting preschool and elementary school children to help educators teach children about good nutrition will be developed, as will product research projects. However, much research is being funded on a long term basis and through the Beef Checkoff.

Coleman said additional programs funded by the PBC under the Act include use of beef and veal industry representatives to attend promotional events at food shows, fairs, malls and special events, use of billboards to promote beef and dairy products jointly, statewide beef and veal cookoffs.

Coleman said, "My association with the Beef Council has been very rewarding, and we're already beginning to see the results of our efforts. We've aimed our program at the 25-45 year old group with active life-styles, delivering the message that modern beef is leaner, low-cal, and high in essential nutrients, tastes great and should be part of any normal diet."

Coleman, a past president of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, served 32 years as a civil engineer with the PA Department of Transportation.

Since he announced his decision to leave, the Beef Council has formed a search committee to interview candidates from across the nation to assume the position of executive director on a full time basis.

Fertigating With Groundwater Nitrogen

Newark, [illegible]tigation is the process of appl[illegible]er solutions through [illegible]ystem while watering t[illegible]rop. H[illegible]ever, some farmers may be fertigating every time they irrigate even without injecting any fertilizers. This is because groundwater used for irrigation sometimes contains plant nutrients.

"Nitrogen is one of these nutrients, and with ever-increasing costs, you can no longer afford to apply a little extra," says Tom Williams, University of Delaware extension agricultural engineer. Nitrogen applied in large amounts before the crop can use it may be lost by leaching or denitrification.

Studies on sandy Delaware soils have shown that one inch of rain or irrigation water can move nitrogen, in the leachable nitrate form, down six inches in the soil profile. At this rate of movement, it doesn't take much water before the nitrogen is lost to the crop and added to the groundwater, says Williams.

Studies of well and stream water in southern Delaware have shown an average nitrogen content of about 3 ppm (parts per million) with a range from no nitrogen up to 110 ppm. This is quite a variation and usually depends on the local situation, Williams says. The EPA standard for safe drinking water is 10 ppm of nitrogen (N) or 45 ppm of nitrates (NO_3).

Water with 10 ppm of nitrogen contains 2.27 pounds of N per acre inch of water, worth about 57 cents in equivalent fertilizer value. "This might not seem like a lot of money," Williams says, "but on a 100-acre center pivot system applying 12 inches of water per season, this would amount to 27.24 pounds of N per acre and be worth about $681 for the whole field. If the water contains more than 10 ppm of N, then its fertilizer value will be greater and its drinking quality lower."

A bushel of corn contains about one pound of nitrogen. The stover and roots also contain approximately one pound of nitrogen. "If you apply more nitrogen to the field than you remove with the crop," the extension engineer says, "some, if not all, of the excess will eventually find its way into the groundwater, causing non-point source pollution."

How much nitrogen are your crops getting from nitrates in the groundwater every time you irrigate? According to Williams, the only sure way to answer this question is to have your irrigation water tested. This should be done at least once a year during the peak of the irrigation season.

A number of laboratories can test water for nitrates. Check the Yellow Pages in the phone book under Chemists-Analytical and Consulting, or Laboratories-Testing. In Delaware, the Public Health Laboratory in Dover will test water. A chemical-analysis kit can be obtained from the environmental health section of county health units in Georgetown, Dover, Newport, Middletown and Wilmington. The kit contains a sampling bottle and instructions and costs $2. In addition to nitrates, it includes an analysis of pH, iron, calcium carbonate and sodium.

Water analysis results are given in ppm or mg/L (milligrams per liter) of nitrates or total nitrogen. The ppm measurement represents the pounds of dry solids in 1 million pounds of water. One ppm is equal to one mg/L and to 8.345 pounds of dry solids in 1 million gallons of water. There are 36.83 acre inches of water in 1 million gallons. You can convert ppm to pounds per acre inch by multiplying ppm or mg/L by 0.227 (8.345 ÷ 36.86=0.227). To convert ppm of N_3 to ppm of N, multiply by 0.222.

THE SIDE-MOUNT THAT CUTS GRASS AND COSTS.

Our new Bush Hog SM-60 side mount cutter cuts ditchbanks, roadsides, and fishpond banks and it cuts costs. The SM-60 is engineered with the quality features that are making Bush Hog the biggest name in farm implements:

With a vertical cutter head movement range of 175 degrees, 90 degrees up for jobs such as maintaining fence rows and 85 degrees down for jobs such as mowing ditches, and 31½ inches of lateral movement. With automatic lateral adjustment of a counterweight that keeps tractors on a safe, even keel while reducing wear and tear on the hitch.

Come in and see us to put all these features to work on your farm—cutting grass and cutting costs.

BUSH HOG®
SM-60 Side Mount

NOT ALL FIELDS ARE PERFECTLY FLAT.

That's why the Bush Hog® model 2615 15-foot cutter's wings are designed to float along contours as severe as 90 degrees up or 22 degrees down while shredding stalks, clipping pastures or cutting along rights-of-way, drainage ditches, terraces and fence rows As it does so, an automatic height adjustment keeps the wings cutting at the same height as the center section A framing system featuring closed box members allows us to make the 2615 pounds lighter without sacrificing any of the strength you've come to expect from a Bush Hog And, less weight not only means less wear and tear on your tractor but it has also allowed us to cut the price

Why pay more to get less — make Bush Hog's success your success

MORE THAN A MOWER.

Of course, a Kubota G-Series lawn and garden tractor is a great way to cut the grass. And with a liquid-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engine, a Kubota is designed to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons.

But that's not all. A Kubota G has a live front PTO shaft drive and a variety of hard-working implements. For example, you can choose a snowblower, tiller or front blade. There are five Kubota G models, from 10 to 16 horsepower. Some come with hydrostatic transmissions as standard equipment.

A Kubota G-Series diesel lawn and garden tractor. There's more to it than you think.

PURINA MILLS, INC.

Dairy Tips By Dr. John Clark

Purina Mills Dairy Consultant

DON'T UNDER FEED YOUR COWS

Following a drought, one of the dairyman's biggest problems is getting enough feed for all of his livestock. The problem can get worse, however, if the amount of feed is reduced in order to stretch the supply of feeds on hand or to reduce the amounts purchased.

All animals must be fed the proper amounts of a balanced ration or their body condition will deteriorate. They will not produce well the following season. Reproduction and disease problems will certainly follow because of the drought caused nutrient deficiencies.

If insufficient feed is available, more should be purchased. If it cannot be purchased, less animals should be fed.

Some of the lower producing animals may need to be culled and their feed fed to more efficient or higher producing animals. Replacing culled animals with higher producing, more efficient animals will keep herd milk production up.

HEIFER RATION QUIZ??

Which ration would you choose for your heifers this winter???

1000 pound heifer	1000 pound heifer
15 lbs. corn silage	50 lbs. corn silage
14 lbs. timothy hay	5 lbs. timothy hay
5 lbs. heifer mix D&H	1.6 lbs. Easy Care Block

ANSWER!!! Both rations are balanced for 1.8 pounds of daily gain on a 1000 pound dairy heifer. The difference is with the high grain price the D&H mix costs about 49¢/head/day. The Easy Care Block program has a cost of 24¢/head/day.

Talk to your Purina Dealer or Purina Dairy Consultant about your heifer program for this winter.
